

IDEAS FOR PICNIC EATS

Everyone enjoys the "care-freeness" of a day spent out of doors, so why not start at the beginning of the season this year with a real-for-sure, old-fashioned picnic?

Picnic meals may be classed in two groups—those prepared at home and merely packed in a picnic kit for the occasion, and those prepared for the picnic spot. Which kind you choose depends upon the equipment available and the inclination of the moment.

Picnic Lunch Box
As suggestions for foods which are "at home" in the picnic lunch box are hearty and cold meat sandwiches, potato chips, relishes, cake or fruit for dessert and a thermos bottle of coffee or iced drink. Or perhaps you will want to prepare a meal of all in one kettle, such as a delicious stew or a veal fricassee. When wrapped with several thicknesses of newspaper, this kettle will stay hot for a considerable length of time. A meat loaf, too, is suggested for the picnic meal, by Mrs. S. Wilson, home economist, and for a different meat loaf flavor, perhaps you will want to add ground cured ham to the ground meat mixture for your next picnic loaf.

Camp Style Picnic
Broiled steaks are among the most popular meats for the camp style picnic, and for many out-door enthusiasts, there is nothing better than steaks broiled over the open fire. In fact, according to a tradition, steaks were named because they were broiled on sticks (steaks) over the fire.

To broil steaks out-of-doors build a large fire and let it die down until it is a mass of red hot embers. Place the steaks on a rack far enough from the heat that they will not cook too quickly. By the time one side is browned, the steaks should be about half done. Turn them and allow them to broil on the second side.

Variation Idea
Frankfurters held on green forked sticks or fastened securely in the toaster and heated over the open fire are picnic favorites. As soon as they are heated through and puffed with their own juices, have ready a spicy barbecue sauce. Dip them in the barbecue sauce and place in bun.

As a variation of the usual camp sandwiches, here is an idea. Lay a thin slice of mild cheese on a slice of soft bread. Over it place a slice of ready to serve meat and roll. Slip onion rings over the roll and toast until browned.

Six Babies Born at Local Hospital

Six babies, four of them boys, were born during the past week at Torrance Memorial hospital. The boys were claimed by: Mr. and Mrs. Verne Barlow, 1412 Cota, last Friday. Barlow is the owner of the Ritz cafe here; Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Hodson, Redondo, on Sunday; Mr. and Mrs. Dale M. Stucker, Manhattan Beach, last Friday; and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Whitson, Redondo Beach, on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Gasco of 2367 246th, Lomita, welcomed a baby daughter on Saturday and Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Fucette, Wilmington, greeted a daughter on Monday.

People

what they're doing

Rev. and Mrs. C. M. Northrup left this week for Milwaukee where they will attend a Baptist convention. Later they will visit relatives in Illinois before returning home.

Mrs. "Bill" Zachary, wife of the owner of the City Paint and Wallpaper store, and daughter, Barbara, returned last week from a month's trip to Dallas, Texas, where they visited Mrs. Zachary's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Christensen left this week for Milwaukee where they will attend a Baptist convention. Later they will visit relatives in Illinois before returning home.

Jack Abrahamson, proprietor of the Torrance Upholstery company, is recovering from a severe case of poison oak, contracted in the mountains several weeks ago.

Mrs. Harold Smith, Marcus Edwards and W. H. Tolson represented the Elementary Parent Teachers Association at the meeting of the Los Angeles County Board of Education, last Thursday.

Seen dancing in the Biltmore Bowl Saturday evening were Miss Jane Johnston and Ivan Hop of Riverside and Miss Betty Stevenson and Kirby Shropshire of Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Beale, 1402 Acacia street, had as their house guests over the week-end, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Cook of Los Angeles.

Miss Florence Mickey, of Portland, Oregon, was a guest one day last week of Mrs. Neal Webb, 1420 1/2 Marcella avenue.

Mrs. Eva May Burns, who suffered a badly wrenched knee in a fall about four weeks ago, returned to her third grade teaching duties at the Torrance Elementary school Monday.

Recovered from an attack of influenza, Mrs. Texa B. Williams, fifth grade teacher at the Elementary school, returned to her classroom Tuesday.

Miss Carolyn Stroh, 1617 Arlington avenue, is leaving Saturday for a month's visit with her parents and other relatives in Loveland, Colo.

Aged Lomitan Dies Sunday

Mrs. Sarah Maria Halstead, age 88, passed away early Sunday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lillie M. Skinner, at 1709 Wilmington Redondo boulevard, Lomita. The funeral was held at the Stone and Myers' chapel Tuesday afternoon with Rev. Swift of Wilmington officiating. The body was shipped to Coin, Iowa, for interment.

Those who survive, in addition to the Lomita daughter, are Mrs. Clara E. Ehrhart, another daughter who lives in Rosemead; a son, Stephen L. Halstead of Coin, Iowa; a twin brother, Simon L. Clifton of Los Angeles; two granddaughters, two great-granddaughters and a great-great-grandson.

May Enlarge Lomita Water District No. 15

Date for a public hearing on a petition to annex an area south and east of Los Angeles County Waterworks District No. 15, Lomita, to that district, is to be set by the board of supervisors Tuesday.

The area proposed to be annexed is unincorporated and is not included within a county irrigation or waterworks district, County Engineer R. E. Shoner reported. A check of the petition shows that it has been signed by owners of slightly more than 50 percent of the lands involved.

BULL-FIDDLE BATTLE ROUND GOES TO CITY TUESDAY

When Mayor William H. Tolson declared that city council minutes of several years ago "will show that Mr. Mershon came before the council and asked for a direct appropriation to buy a string bass for the Torrance Symphony," the city won Round Two Tuesday night in the "Battle of the Bull-Fiddle" which started May 10.

This week's discussion of the big instrument, formally known as string bass No. 169, began when City Clerk A. H. Bartlett read George Mershon's denial that he had any information about the bull-fiddle. The music dealer-teacher in the audience told the council that the instrument was in possession of the Torrance Musicians' Society, "incorporated under the laws of the state of California."

Under questioning of Councilman James Hitchcock, Mershon declared that the instrument does not belong to the city any more; that it was purchased out of a grant of $400 to the Torrance Symphony orchestra in consideration for four free concerts which, he said, had been carried out. "The possession of the string bass," Musician Mershon said, "does not enter into that contract. We put the money into the string bass rather than in our own pockets."

Mayor Tolson abruptly ended the round by referring the entire matter to the city attorney for "complete investigation and action at the next meeting."

That the city treasury, opened to musicians thru the appropriations for the municipal band and the symphony concerts, appeals to other players was indicated this week when Richard Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Miller of 1217 Cota, appealed to the council.

ADD TO BUILDING
An appropriation of $450 to erect an extension to the storage building at the city yards was voted by the city council Tuesday night.

Mayor Proclaims 'Hospitality Day'

To re-emphasize Southern California's traditional spirit of hospitality toward the visitor and to signal the opening of the summer tourist season, Mayor William H. Tolson today joined other Los Angeles county mayors in proclaiming next Wednesday, June 1, official Southern California "Hospitality Day."

In the proclamation, issued at the suggestion of De Kalb Spurlin, member of the County Advisory Council of the All-Year Club, Southern California's official tourist organization, Mayor Tolson declared: "WHEREAS, Southern California's reputation for friendliness and hospitality is historic; and, whereas, Southern California hopes to be host this summer to more than a million guests from other states and other lands; and, whereas, hospitable treatment and a friendly welcome, which costs nothing more than a few seconds' time and a little considered thought, can make these million guests walking ambassadors for Southern California among their friends at home."

Now, therefore, I proclaim Wednesday, June 1, the start of our summer tourist season, official Hospitality Day in the city of Torrance. In the knowledge that this special day will be a symbol of the hospitality Southern California citizens extend to their visitors the year around."
