

Paris Styles

by MARY FENTRESS

PARIS (U.P.)—Weddings still rank as the No. 1 opportunity for fashion spies but at the same time they frequently offer a problem not always easy to solve. Paris ceremonies may give a few ideas for the bride, guest or attendant.

If the bride is young and slim, she might take a cue from the recent country wedding of Ann France Bird to Thomas Wilson, Jr. The bride wore a Mainbocher wedding gown of soft white mousseline with white silk leaves woven through it. The skirt was fully gathered and trailed behind in a short train. The bodice, almost approaching a gathered blouse, had a corsage of white mousseline flowers at its V. Its sleeves were just below the elbow, tight at the bottom, draped at the top. With the gown the bride wore long white mousseline gloves and a floor-length tulle veil caught by a circlet of artificial white spring flowers.

For her going-away outfit the young American girl chose a Mainbocher ensemble with a printed silk dress under a navy crepe de chine coat, featuring the popular bloused top and gathered skirt. Her hat was a broad, trimmed navy felt with a coarse fillet net crown.

A more pretentious wedding was that of Princess Eugenie of Greece to Prince Radziwill. For the civil ceremony at the town hall, the princess wore a Molyneux gown of pale blue crepe with a matching coat. The coat, draped at the waist, had two dress-material roses at its neck.

Princess Georges of Greece, the bride's mother, chose a long perenne blue satin dress cut on slim lines and with long sleeves to wear at the church ceremony. Princess Sixte de Bourbon Parme wore a long dove gray crinkled-crepe dress, its short sleeves giving a cape effect, its bodice crossed over and draped at the waistline.

Princess de Bourbon Parme's choice of dove gray is one more proof that gray whether it be dove or pearl, slate or iron, will be of mounting importance as the season advances.

TODAY'S FASHION TIP—Soft shades of gray and blue—and white—are suggested for wedding wear by Paris brides.

WOMAN'S CLUB VARIETY SHOW

At a special session of the Torrance Woman's club executive board held in the Chamber of Commerce yesterday plans for presenting a variety show by a group of talented young people late in July was discussed. The board voted to present the affair and were assured the support of Albert Bartlett, city clerk; J. E. Hitchcock, councilman and L. J. Gilmeister, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who were present at the meeting. Proceeds will be used to repair and redecorate the Woman's clubhouse, 1422 Ingracia avenue. Amounts derived from this affair added to the amount realized from last year's show will, club members believe, be adequate.

PARTY HONORS MRS. ASHLEY

Mrs. Gilbert Wegner, 1603 Post avenue, was hostess at one of the week's loveliest parties, when she entertained at a shower and birthday party Monday evening for Mrs. Robert Ashley. Guests included Mmes. L. G. Barkdull, J. C. Snow, R. A. Bingham, Baker Smith, Robert Ashley and M. Rasmussen of Gardena.

BUFFET SUPPER MARKS GRADUATION

Mrs. Carrie Parks, 1003 Portola avenue, entertained at a buffet supper honoring her son, James, on the occasion of his graduation from Torrance high school last Thursday.

Classmates, relatives and friends were served at the family home from 5:00 to 7:00 p. m. Assisting Mrs. Parks were Mrs. Blanche Hastie of Lynwood, and Mrs. Mary Schroeder. Guests were present from Glendale, Los Angeles, Highland Park, and Chicago.

District Clubwomen Will Convene Here Sept. 15

Free use of the Civic Auditorium was granted the Torrance Woman's club by the city council Tuesday night for the first presidents' council session, to be held here Sept. 15, which will attract about 900 or 1,000 clubwomen from 216 women's clubs affiliated with the Los Angeles District Federation.

A letter from the Chamber of Commerce, written in behalf of the local organization, explained that the convention will include morning, luncheon and afternoon sessions and that a committee, composed of chamber officers, city officials and representatives of the Torrance club, will perfect plans for the event.

Mrs. H. C. Barrington, president of the Woman's club, hopes to secure either the Torrance theatre or the new high school assembly hall, if that building is completed by then, for the morning and afternoon business meetings.

PRESENT PROGRAM AT GIRLS' CAMP

High school students and representatives of the high school Parent Teachers Association presented an interesting symposium Tuesday morning, when they discussed the problem "What do parents expect of children and what do children expect of parents" before a group of some 100 girls, who are in camp at Pacific Palisades. Muriel Duncan, physical education instructor at Torrance high school, is the leader of the girls at this camp and it was at her request that the program was given.

Those taking part were Mrs. J. E. Hitchcock, Mrs. L. G. Barkdull, Misses Marjorie Page, Phyllis Sears, Marion Spehger, Virginia Traller, Marie McHenry, Messrs. Gene Bordeaux, John McDonald, Bob Tolson and Bob Isaacs.
