Library Extends Service Here

More local people are Torrance public library patrons now than ever before and consequently the circulation of books has made an unusual jump, according to Mrs. Dorothy Jamieson, librarian. At the last meeting of the library board, she reported the circulation was averaging 1,200 more books per month this year than in 1937.

Mrs. Jamieson told the board, which consists of Scott R. Ludlow, president; William H. Stanger, secretary; Mrs. Charles Smith, James Hitchcock and Tom McGuire, that the circulation this month should reach 4,400. The peak month for the year was August, when more than 4,500 books were issued to patrons.

Learn Library's Use
During the past several months, the librarian has been conducting special library studies for the fifth and sixth grades at the Torrance Elementary school every Wednesday and Friday afternoons. Accompanied by their teachers, the pupils go to the library for instructions in how to use books, how to select their own reading material and, in general, become acquainted with the library facilities.

Mrs. Jamieson said that in this manner, the boys and girls when they enter high school and have to do considerable reference work are prepared to use the library without much assistance from the institution's staff. They also become acquainted with good literature and know how to conduct themselves while in the building. Other school grades have made periodic visits to the library this year and the librarian said students were always welcome, individually or in groups.

How New Hair-Do's Change Famous Faces

WHAT a difference a change of hair-do can develop. With the suggestion that women should accent their good points to further advantage, Margarette Byers, co-author of the best-seller "Designing Women," presents in the November issue of Good Housekeeping Magazine several famous women with their well-known coiffures "done over."

Fanny Brice should not be so different about the new hair-styles. For instance, these upswung wings would give her width at the temples while she needs while the wide browline would discover charming oval contours. A word to the smart is sufficient—especially to the creator of precocious Baby Snooks!

Elsie Maxwell is always so obliging about being a prima donna that she has been chosen to wear a wig that she will balance her type of chin becoming, and it will give her face a dignity that in no way detracts from its friendliness.

Kate Smith probably hides a nice peak under her present coiffure. So in the sketch it is shown to accent her oval chin and her hair is built out at the temples and nape, and at the ears, giving her face and figure better proportion. It will also make her look taller.

Frances Perkins understands so well both herself and the precise proportions of conservatism and chic that are correct in Washington that Miss Byers suggests only one alteration—till of the hat.

MWD Reservoir Bids Due Dec. 9

Bids for construction of the Palos Verdes reservoir for the Metropolitan Water district will be opened Dec. 9 by the board of directors, it was announced yesterday.

The work includes excavation, rolled fill embankment and a concrete lining for a 1,000-acre reservoir at approximately Narbonne avenue and Palos Verdes feeder line now under construction between Pasadena and the reservoir site.

Work involved includes 1,600,000 cubic yards of excavation for the reservoir and outlet tunnel. A spillway and a supply tunnel also are to be constructed in conjunction with it.

Keep Water Pure
Construction of a short section of road is required, since the site selected will require re-routing of one of the highways. A concrete-walled open storm drain 2,800 feet long, a steel foot bridge, fencing of the entire reservoir site and appurtenant work also are called for in the plans.

The schedule of items states that 14,000,000 cubic yard trips will be required to compact the earth blanket and main embankment, and 2,000,000 cubic yard trips compacting road fill and toe embankment for the dam.

The main embankment will be cross-hatched with 2,000,000 pounds of reinforcing steel and 1,300,000 square feet of gunite lining will be placed on this and on the rest of the interior to prevent seepage from the inside out or from the outside in. This lining will be placed on this and on the rest of the interior to prevent seepage from the inside out or from the outside in. This lining will be placed on this and on the rest of the interior to prevent seepage from the inside out or from the outside in.

Inquests Held for Crash Victims

"did the best I could to avoid the collision." The front end of P. E. car struck the automobile broadside on the right hand side.

Mrs. Ross, the motorist reported, swerved her machine to the left to avoid the accident but was going too fast. Weaver said the wig-wag warning signal was operating and his car was traveling "between 18 and 20 miles an hour."

He reported that he stopped his car, which was carrying Mrs. Ross' sedan on its pilot, about 125 feet east of the crossing.

The autopsy report stated that Mrs. Ross succumbed to rib fractures and a punctured lung. Other witnesses were the bereaved husband, John Bell Ross, and Motor Officer Edwin Shortridge of the Redondo police department.

Funeral service for Mrs. Ross will be held this (Tuesday) afternoon at Stone and Myers' chapel with Rev. Hugo Foucar, Redondo Baptist pastor officiating. Interment will be at Inglewood Park cemetery.

Last rites for Francisco Ruelas were held at the Wilmington Catholic church yesterday. Interment was at the Wilmington cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Craig Enter 58th Year Together

Fifty-seven years ago last Sunday a young "mule-skinner" who had just started railroading in Texas married an Arkansas girl in Strawn, Texas. Today that couple, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Craig of 1465 West 218th, are starting their 58th year together. The wedding anniversary was passed without ostentatious celebration—just the Craigs together and later they were joined by Son Albert B. Craig and his family who live on 218th street.

The fine old couple—he is 85 and Mrs. Craig is 77—are another son, John L. Craig, who lives in Oklahoma City, and a daughter, Mrs. Minnie M. Foreman of Los Angeles. They also have seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. Craig is in good health but his devoted wife has been feeling very good for the past month.

Born on a farm near Mt. Vernon, Ill., Craig cruised down the Mississippi on a flat boat to New Orleans and then went to Texas to work as a freighter between Ft. Worth and Desdemona, then known as Hog Town. He began railroading shortly before his marriage and after several years, Mr. and Mrs. Craig went back to Illinois. From there they migrated west to Oklahoma City and then came to California in 1919.

Craig worked in the shipyard on Terminal Island and 11 years ago built his home here because "Torrance looked good to us and it still does." He is still a member—the not an active one—of the Odd Fellows lodge which he joined when he was 38. He also is a Woodman of the World. Craig has three brothers and three sisters still living, one sister being a year older than he is. Mrs. Craig has one living sister. He was too young to get into the Civil War and too old for the World War but his son Albert served in the Navy for a number of years. One of Craig's brothers and a brother of Mrs. Craig served in the War between the States. He says he "guesses" he is a Democrat in politics although "I have always voted for the man rather than the party."

The Craigs have been subscribers to The Herald for nearly ten years and Monday morning he renewed his subscriptions because "I like our home-town paper and what it is trying to do to make Torrance a better city."

After the dinner gifts were presented to the betrothed couple, whose wedding will take place Thursday at Lakewood wedding chapel in Long Beach.

Flower Shop Event Draws Big Crowds
The combination of a third anniversary of Harriett Leech's flower shop and an unusual fine display of orchids, rarest of all commercial flowers, proved a big attraction last Friday. Hundreds visited the shop all day long to see the orchids and wish Mrs. Leech "many happy returns of the day." Refreshments were served by members of the St. Cecilia Guild. Those who received orchids in the special event held by Mrs. Leech were Mrs. James R. Wilkes, 2017 Gramercy; Mrs. Bess Myers, 1230 Cravens; Mrs. Sam Arcey, Palos Verdes Estates; Mrs. F. E. Watson, 1346 West 225th; Mrs. Marie Beale, 1402 Acacia, and Dayton Houck, Los Angeles.
