Germany Seeks Faster Turnout of Apprentices

BERLIN (U.P.)—To help meet Germany's labor shortage, 4,000 labor committees embracing about 50,000 factory executives and workers have been ordered to study means of reducing periods of apprenticeship at least to three years.

It is concluded that the educational efforts of the Workers' Front and the Hitler Youth, together with general intensification of factory activity make such a reduction possible.

Other questions the committees are to deal with this winter are "Simplifying Working Processes," "Raising Professional Standards of Accomplishment," "Health in Factories," "Care of the Factory Working-Woman."

Two Christmas Gifts Brought by Doc Stork

Scorning the obvious names such as Holly, Nicholas, Carol or Chris, Mr. and Mrs. Dale O. Woods of Hermosa Beach, yesterday decided to name their Christmas baby Dale Orvel, Jr. He was born at 1:07 p. m., Christmas Day at Torrance Memorial hospital. Father Woods is a machinist employed at the Hydri plant and Mrs. Woods is 32 years old. Dale Orvel, Jr., is their first child.

Old Doc Stork also delivered another Christmas gift at the San Pedro hospital when he brought Barbara Ann Miller into the world at 3:59 p. m., on the great holiday. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Miller of 2116 248th street, Lomita.

It pays to advertise in The Herald.

STATE PICNICS

MICHIGAN . . . All former Wolverines are invited to attend the annual picnic reunion to be held Saturday, Jan. 7, in Sycamore Grove Park, Los Angeles, with basket picnic dinners at noon. A program of music and talks will follow. Each Michigan county will open headquarters and provide registers to enroll.

FIRST TIME TOGETHER . . . Gary Cooper and Merle Oberon are co-starred for the first time in the romantic comedy, "The Cowboy and the Lady," which is now showing at the Plaza theatre in Hawthorne.

WHAT WOULD HAPPEN . . . If a cowboy (Gary Cooper) married the sophisticated daughter (Merle Oberon) of a rich U. S. Senator under the impression that she was a servant girl? The answer to that question is provided in the romantic comedy, "The Cowboy and the Lady," which is showing tonight at the Torrance theatre.

It's all very light and gay and romantic—but you can see that there's got to be a lot of psychological readjustment between the two principals before they're going to get to the "happy-ever-after" stage.

Being a cowboy is right up Gary's alley. He started in movies as one and he's no further removed from a successful characterization of that sort than the nearest high-heeled boots and 10-gallon hat. With Merle it's a little different. The producer doesn't expect anybody to believe Miss Oberon could pass as a servant girl, so in the picture her masquerade isn't designed to fool anyone but Cooper—and he's so blindly in love with her he'd believe anything.

The action of "The Cowboy and the Lady" traipses from Washington, D. C., to Miami, to Galveston, to the Texas cattle ranges and back again. A lot of interesting characters dodge in and out and the cast reads like that of a super colossal. There are Patsy Kelley, Mabel Todd, Walter Brennan and Fuzzy Knight.

No wonder Cooper and Miss Oberon had a grand time being teamed as sweethearts for the first time on the screen.

COLMAN, DEE CO-STARRED

A verse-writing rogue from the backstreets of Paris, who saves an empire and loses his heart all in one unforgettable week, and a beautiful princess, whose love makes her defy the commands of her king, form the romantic team in the new Frank Lloyd production, "If I Were King." Ronald Colman and Frances Dee, teamed together for the first time, play the two famous lovers in an epic version of the story of Francois Villon.

This picture is now showing at the Plaza theatre in Hawthorne. Colman is presented as one of the best-loved and most romantic figures in all history. Villon, the verse-writing vagabond of fifteenth century Paris, whose poems even today thrill the hearts of lovers, was made ruler of France for one tumultuous week by the caprice of eccentric King Louis XI, who took a fancy to the lovable ruffian during a street brawl. His love for Katherine De Vaucelles, a princess of the royal court, forms one of the grandest chapters in all romance.

The high point of the story comes when Colman throws the vast royal storehouses open to the populace and arms the Paris mob as a people's army to meet the enemy—a rabble-army against the most powerful troops of Europe.
