REALTORS FIX '39 PROGRAM

President T. B. Hill of the Torrance-Lomita Realty Board has a program mapped for the 1939 activities of his organization and today announced that the board will start driving toward a successful year at the first meeting—Jan. 3 at the office of J. C. Smith of the Torrance Investment company here.

A new Lomita postoffice building, increased membership of realtors in the district, promotion of home building and labor harmony will be the principal aims of the group for 1939, Hill said. He is also the district director in the state realtors' association.

Heads of committees next year will be J. C. Smith, membership; Edith Smith, publicity; B. C. Buxton, arbitration; Mrs. M. O. Brown, entertainment and program; and S. D. Patterson, relief.

REALTORS MEET
The first dinner meeting of the Torrance-Lomita Realty Board will be held in Lomita, Feb. 7, according to President T. B. Hill, who presided at the regular session held Tuesday night here. Wendell Hards and F. O. Odler, San Pedro realtors' association officials, addressed the district group.

Fox Farmer

UNITED PRESS

Kay Barker, Parkersburg, W. Va., socialist, who spent five months on her Ushigai Island, Alaska, fox farm, is shown as she returned to Seattle with a black eye to get a manure and a hair-do. As she doffed her Alaska clothing for some "civilized furies," she claimed she got her "shins" from bumping into a door.

Five Babies Born Here During Week

In addition to the New Year baby (see story and picture on Page One), four baby girls were born at Torrance Memorial hospital during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Cook of 1533 1/2 Marcelina welcomed a daughter Monday; Mr. and Mrs. Ray A. Dean of Redondo greeted a daughter Tuesday; Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Loveland of Hawthorne claimed a daughter last Thursday; and Mr. and Mrs. John B. Shaw of 1820 Andree (he is a Columbia Steel worker) saluted a daughter last Thursday.

BOISE AND BUGGY DOCTOR

By Dr. Arthur E. Herdster:
This book is one of rich anecdote and the tale is told in terms of experiences so concrete and human that it would be hard to find even a brief stretch that did not hold the interest of the non-medical readers. Kansas in the time of the 80s and 90s, but not "gay 90s," and of education that went on day by day. Patients were reached on foot, on horseback and in a buggy, by a young doctor who was famous for getting there and became famous for his honesty and caustic philosophy. You will admire the continuous play of his dry wit and you will be more entertained by this honest objective self record.

WHAT PEOPLE SAID BY W. L. WINTER. Out of the heart of America comes a novel as native as the U. S. It tells the story of a town and its people, chiefly of two leading families caught in an enormous scandal which makes their town, their state and themselves national property. Wherever you live, you know Athens, you will recognize its people. The author is the son of William Allen White and has written his story with a lively command of American language and all the physical details of the appearance of the American community.

WATERWAY by Eleanor Dark: This story covers 24 hours in the life of a suburb of Sydney, Australia. Just how it differs from a suburb in England or America is hard to explain, but it does and one half expects it to throw off its domesticity and return to something very primitive. There is a freshness about these lives in a still new country and as one reads it seems as if one were looking at the world from a new angle.

THE STRUMPET SEA by Ben Ames Williams: Is an excellent yarn by a story teller who knows how to take an interesting background, South Sea whaling, missionaries and cannibals, and to blend it into a telling tale. The characters are real, alive and numerous and one expects what happens to them—incidentally this is a good thing.

IMAGES IN A MIRROR by Sigrid Undset: Mrs. Undset has left her usual life of the Middle Ages and given us a novel of modern marriage. A devoted wife and mother, restive under her husband's existence, thinks of her past as an actress and finds it dangerous with romantic ideas. The author handles a delicate emotional situation with her usual rare understanding and tells a good story too.

TIDES OF MONT ST. MICHEL by Roger Verel: Since the Middle Ages this fortress-church, on a tiny rocky isle surrounded by quicksands and cut off by a tide that races in with the speed of death, has been the object of wonder by pilgrims. Its story of fisher folk ply their trade in the shadow of its walls. Whether you have seen Mont St. Michel or not you will delight in the spell of the story.

BRICKS WITHOUT STRAWE by Charles Norris: "The inability of each generation to understand the next has enough heart-break in it, and enough humor to keep it the subject of new novels each year." Norris' treatment of a kind of solid sympathy which grows upon the reader. The book is remarkable for its warm portrayal of universal human emotions and is intensely realistic in the most faithful sense.

Tony Nady, now a U. S. seaman, was assigned to the U. S. S. Nevada beginning Jan. 1. Also on the Nevada is Pat Sullivan, former Torrance high school student. Nady spent the holidays with his family here.

Mrs. Frank Case of Carson street returned home Saturday with her baby daughter, Frances Jo Anne, from the Maywood hospital. The baby was born Dec. 31 and she is their first child. Father Case is employed by the Superior Oil company.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Kneiser, 1008 Amapola avenue, visited with Mrs. Kate Griffin at Hollywood, Saturday.

Miss Winifred Caldwell of Riverside, is visiting for a time with her sister, Mrs. Dean L. Sears, 1428 El Prado.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Levy with Los Angeles friends, spent the New Year's holiday in San Francisco.

Mrs. O. W. Hudson, 1753 Andree, is convalescing at her home after having recently undergone a major operation at the Seaside hospital in Long Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Woodcock, their son Arthur and daughter, Barbara, 1218 Amapola, with Mrs. J. Inman and Mr. Lester Inman attended the Duke-U.S.C. game at the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Bupp, 938 Arlington avenue, had as their New Year's guest, Miss Winifred Gray of Banning.

Mr. and Mrs. Neal Webb Jr., 121 1/2 Marcelina avenue, had as their guests on New Year's Day, Mr. and Mrs. William Crissman and son Billy of Compton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. McMaster were hosts to their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Belton Lidyard of San Diego over the New Year's holidays. The visitors also greeted Lidyard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Knight of this city.

"Open House" and Play at Narbonne High School Friday

Narbonne high school's "Open House" for members of the community will be Friday, Jan. 13, at 7 p. m., when every room in the school plant will be open for public inspection. Exhibits and projects will be displayed by various classes. Some groups will be in actual operation, "selection" classes demonstrating to visitors just what the classroom procedure consists of.

According to Principal John Leslie Abbott, the program will be designed to show the public how the school operates. As visitors tour the school under the guidance of members of the Jane Addams and Vincentian service clubs, they will see demonstrations by the English, social studies, math, science, journalism, home economics commercial, physical education and industrial arts classes.

Following the "Open House," the junior class will present their annual class play, "Spring Fever," which will be under the direction of Miss Irene May. A small admission of 25 cents will be charged. After the play all adults will be invited to the cafeteria where tea and cookies will be served by Miss Dorothy Glasgow's home economics class.

The saxophone is named for Adolphe Sax, its inventor.

DRAMATIC SCENE . . . One of the most vivid screen scenes of recent years is the dramatic battle episode in "Angels With Dirty Faces," starring Pat O'Brien and James Cagney. This attraction opens Saturday at the Plaza theatre in Hawthorne.

Cagney's Latest Gangster Drama, Showing at Torrance Theatre, With 1938 Academy Award

James Cagney and Pat O'Brien by a virtual army of policemen. It interest goes far beyond such episodes. It is a biography of the tough youth played by Cagney, carrying in him from his boyhood to the electric chair. At the same time it contrasts his life with that of the character played by Pat O'Brien. On the same program is Charles Farrell in a thrilling air mystery "The Flight to Fame."
