Around Hollywood Film Lots

HOLLYWOOD (U.P.)—George Raft wants people to like him and that is why he feels that roles requiring him to be hated or feared are too high a price to pay for film stardom. His views do not mean that Raft will no longer play tough characters, but he wants his parts to have some redeeming qualities that will keep audiences from hating him.

Raft now is playing the role of a tough guy, a convict, with James Cagney in Warner Bros. "Each Dawn I Die," but he is a sympathetic character who is on the level with the person whose counts most to him, his pal, Cagney.

And because audiences will go out of the theatre feeling sorry for him, Raft likes the role. He says it is the sort he can do best, for he knows that he cannot play 100 percent pure hero on the screen.

"I don't give a hoot whether or not I get the girl or a bullet that puts me out of the way so the other fellow can have her," Raft explained. "I don't have a single romantic scene in this picture, for example. But it's a swell role with plenty of dramatic opportunities."

"But the roles of bad men who are all bad are out from now on as far as I am concerned. I've been around some lately on personal appearance steps, and you'd be surprised how people mix an actor's real life with the character he plays on the screen."

"Maybe I'm funny that way, but I want people to like me. And in addition, I want to remain in this movie game. It's a long, hard climb to get near the top and I want to stay there."

"I've noticed that fellows like Ronald Colman and Gary Cooper have stayed there for a long time and they keep right on going. They have always played sympathetic characters. But I can name you any number of 'heavies' who had spectacular flashes and then disappeared in

Thefts-of-Week Cover Wide Range

Scattered thru police records in hopeful paragraphs—hopeful because rare is the stolen material recovered—were a series of petty theft accounts this week. Among them were:

Seven hens and a rooster stolen from Mrs. Daudoy's henhouse at 2221 25th street, last Wednesday night.

$50 worth of aluminum and scrap copper from the Pacific Electric shops last Thursday night. Watchman reported he saw two boys, about 15 and 13 years of age, inside the fence earlier in the afternoon.

Shaft and gear from the Torrance Metal company on lower Engracia avenue last Thursday night.

Spare tire and battery from Johnny Saxon's car while it was parked in the rear of the El Prado apartments last Friday night.

Lantern on a pile of sand near Schuler and Peckham's Ford garage last Saturday night.

Fishing tackle, valued at $50 and consisting of reels and poles, from Dr. O. E. Fossum's garage at 1821 Cota avenue last Thursday night.

New Liquor Store Starting Business

Its walls attractively paneled in knotty pine, making an unusually attractive appearance, Ralph's Cut-Rate Liquor store is opening this week-end at 1601 Cabrillo, corner of Gramercy avenue. The firm is offering a number of specials from its large stock to signal its debut in Torrance.

Bill Mullin, well-known local resident, is manager of the shop. He was one of the first liquor dealers in business here, having formerly operated a store on Post avenue. Ralph's is featuring Old San Gabriel bulk wines but is also supplied with many other brands of liquors.

Radio Hillbilly Entertains Here

Several hundred attended the entertaining program presented by "Mirandy," radio hillbilly philosopher of Hollywood, at the Civic Auditorium Tuesday night under the auspices of the Torrance Men's Bible class. "Slim" Williams of the "Country Church of the Air" was heard in bird imitations and trumpet solos, accompanied by his wife at the piano.

Great Ramona Romance Being Prepared for New Season

One of the most beloved romances ever written, "Ramona" vivid outdoor play of early California, soon will be presented to the public for the sixteenth season. The people of Hemet and San Jacinto in Elverdado County will offer the eighty-fourth performance of Ramona Saturday, April 22.

The thrilling drama is given in Ramona Bowl in the picturesque hills near Mt. San Jacinto. Returning to the cast this season in the title role is Jean Inness whose portrayal in past seasons has won the hearts of thousands. Victor Jory will be seen for his eleventh season as Alessandro, fateful Indian lover. The couple also is serving as directors. They are seen in the picture above left to right.

The 1938 season of the play calls for performances Saturday and Sunday afternoons, April 22-23, 25-26 and May 6 and 7.

'Our Town' Prize Play in L. A.

Winner of the 1938 Pulitzer award as the best new play produced in New York this year, "Our Town" comes to the Billmore theatre next Monday night with Frank Craven and the same principal cast that appeared on Broadway and the current tour for the past year.

Thornton Wilder, who wrote "Our Town," is best known as a novelist. In 1928 he wrote "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," the book that brought him the Pulitzer prize of that year and the award to his play makes him the only writer to win the prize in two departments of literature.

Craven describes the mythical village Grover's Corners, New Hampshire, where the action takes place, and introduces the characters as they make their entrances. Members of two families, the Gibbs and the Webbs, supply most of the action. Their heads are respectively, the village doctor and the editor of the local paper. And they are, the door neighbors. George Gibbs and Emily Webb, both in high school, fall in love and are married. Everyday lives of the parents and the children along with other villagers, are traced with fine accuracy and it is by this simple device that the author tells the story of all humanity on its march from the cradle to the grave. The spectator has a feeling of sitting at the roadside as civilization marches past.

Besides Craven, principals of the "Our Town" cast are Martha Scott, Thomas Coley, Ann Shoemaker, Thomas W. Ross, Helen Carew and James Spotswood. Popular matinees will be played on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

Bid for Fame Boldly Entered By Wahoo, Neb.

WAHOO, Neb. (U.P.)—Wahoo may sound like a gag to a New Yorker, but residents of this little Nebraska town of 5,000 believe it rivals any community of similar size in the number of distinguished persons it has produced. For example, Darryl Zanuck, Hollywood film producer, was born in Wahoo at the La Grande hotel, which his father maintained for several years.

Sam "Wahoo Sam" Crawford, for 21 years a member of the Detroit Tigers and now a Pacific coast league baseball umpire, learned the game where he was born and reared.

Howard Hanson, dean of the Eastman School of Music at Rochester, N. Y., and an eminent American composer and symphony orchestra director, was born in Wahoo and was graduated from the Wahoo high school.
