

Nothing New in Vegetables?

HAVE YOU TRIED NAPA, TARO, DIKON, RAPINI OR CARDOON?

By UNITED PRESS

Housewives interested by the monotony of the same old vegetables day after day should take a tip from the state department of agriculture and give some of the lesser known truck varieties a try.

The larger markets always have on hand an array of tasty vegetables that serve admirably to dress up a meal and actually delight the palate of discriminating eaters. Here are a few taken at random from the shipment summary of the federal-state market news service:

DIKON—A long Japanese radish, sometimes called Tai Kon. The Chinese variety, has buds, is sweet. There is also a type which resembles a huge beet.

TARO—A tropical root crop from which is prepared a potent Oriental potion. Some folks call it elephant ears. It is a favorite of the Japanese.

ANISE or FINOCHIO—An annual plant, the bulk of which is much relished both for salad use and as a cooked vegetable. The crisp stalks are eaten like celery and have a pronounced licorice flavor. It is also known as Italian fennel.

FAVA BEAN—Commonly known as "Horse Beans," rich and full flavored. To use, shell as you would peas.

NAPA—Nothing more than Chinese cabbage. It is not a cabbage but so-called because its flavor somewhat resembles it, being a cross between celery and cabbage. Forms upright heads after the fashion of celery. Does not give the objectionable odor of cabbage while being cooked, and is excellent when used raw in salads.

CALABASI—A member of the chichory family, highly esteemed by the Italians as a salad green. Said by them to contain many valuable minerals and vitamins and believed to exert beneficial laxative and stomachic influences.

ENDIVE—Another branch of the chichory family, relished for its crisp tenderness and sharp, slightly bitter flavor which serves to help revive sluggish appetites.

ESCAROLE—Also related to the chichory family and prized for its beautifully curled, broad leaves of light green to creamy white color. Crisp and refreshing to the taste.

BOSTON LETTUCE—Commonly known as "Local Lettuce." Very popular among the Italians by whom it is considered superior to head type lettuce. It has tender succulence and delightfully fresh taste.

CHINA PEAS—This edible pod pea is of recent popularity but has long been an Oriental favorite. The fresh, sweet taste is agreeable to the palate. It is string beans, that is, breaking the tips and removing the strings. May be boiled as are beans or fried in oil as the Chinese do. By the latter method, the raw pods are dropped into a hot skillet with a fairly generous amount of oil and cooked until crisp.

CARDUON—Thickened ribs of large basal leaves of an artichoke thistle plant, cooked by steaming in pieces and frying in butter.

RAPINI—Young turnip plants, used as a boiled green. Tender and delicious, particularly good when served with any meat in which pork is the main meat course.

RABICHETTA—Young dandelion plants, popular among Italians as a salad ingredient. Also believed by many to have medicinal value. A favorite way to prepare this is to chop fine and mix with local lettuce in a bowl which has been rubbed well with garlic. Olive oil and vinegar dressing is added.

ROMAINE—Frequently called celery lettuce because of its erect habit of growth. More delicious than head lettuce, but not widely known except by Latin peoples. Excellent variation from usual lettuce in salad.

SWISS CHARD—Member of

That Additional Touch

By Frances Lee Barton

A pound of wool is merely wool unless someone can spin it. A cup cake is nothing but a cake without some crumb in it. Don't bring me lamb without mint sauce. It will not suit me much. When edibles are served to me I crave that extra touch.

Remember that additional touch. Parley on the steak, lemon for fish, horseradish for cold meats, raisins in the rice pudding and currants that turn a plain cup cake into a luscious morsel that registers as "top" at dinner or for that befuddled bite.

Current Cup Cakes
2 cups sifted cake flour
3 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter or other shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg, unbeaten
1 cup currants
8 cup milk
1/4 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and stir together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg and currants and beat well. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla. Bake in greased cup-cake pans in moderate oven (375° F.) 18 to 20 minutes, or until done. Makes 2 dozen cup cakes.

the beet family, only the tops of which are used. Prepared in same manner as spinach, although chard is free from grit which usually accompanies spinach. By Italian chard is considered superior to spinach and is used by them in preference to it.

KOHL RABI—Member of the cabbage group, similar to a turnip, produced on a cabbage root. Fish of the thickened stem resembles that of a turnip but when well grown is more delicate, both in texture and flavor. In quality it is superior to all other members of the cabbage group except cauliflower.

DISHWASHER BOON TO BUSY CHARACTER PLAYER

Constantly in demand by major Hollywood motion picture studios because of her talent in interpreting difficult character roles on the screen, Margaret Hamilton, familiar to millions of movie fans the world over, has but limited opportunity to indulge her hobby, which is taking care of her charming home on Canyon Drive in Beverly Hills. Any housekeeping device that will save time and energy is welcomed by her. Above she is shown in the kitchen of her home with her latest work-saving acquisition: a "Spray-Foam" dishwasher, amazing new device, recently perfected by a Southern California inventor, which is currently exciting great interest among local home makers. One of these machines is being presented to each purchaser of a qualified automatic gas water heater during the period of a campaign being conducted by a local gas appliance dealer in cooperation with the gas company.

Houses Built on Dump Of Shells Ordered Razed

CAMBRIDGE, Fla.—No sooner had workmen completed a new block of houses here when they were ordered down. It was discovered that they had been built over a forgotten dump of 80 tons of shells.

Civilians were compelled by the Germans to bury the ammunition in August, 1918.

Cucumber Bottle Grown
BENNINGTON, Vt. (U.P.)—George A. Robinson has grown a cucumber five inches long, three inches in diameter inside a bottle.

To Hospital First Time At 78
AKRON, O. (U.P.)—Seventy-eight-year-old Minnie Ellet is in the hospital for the first time in her life, but she considers it "just a vacation."

Locomotive Kills Dog Serving Life Sentence

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O. (U.P.)—Teddy, the community dog that was sentenced to life in the County Children's Home by a two-judge court after a legal trial for failure to have a license tag, is dead, a victim of a railroad locomotive.

The dog, in court a year ago, was saved at the time by a high school group who filed legal papers and a trial, which attracted national interest, resulted. It had been a ward of the court at the Tacoma children's home for the past year.

Baby Orang To Have Party
ST. LOUIS, (U.P.)—A baby orangutan, believed to be the fourth of its kind born in the United States, is to have a coming out party at the zoo here soon.

Recorded Chimes, Shidler Memorial, to Be Heard Sunday

A transcription of the finest chimes in the world will be heard here for the first time Easter Sunday morning when the memorial amplifying system, donated by the parish of St. Andrew's Episcopal church in memory of the late Dr. George P. Shidler, will be heard from the church tower on Encarnacion avenue.

Designed by Gene Debra, well-known local radio technician, the chime system has been presented to the church by a group of friends of the late physician who desire to remain anonymous. Electrically-recorded discs of the famed Westminster and other noted chimes will be played and amplified to cover a wide area.

The first presentation is set for 10:30 o'clock next Sunday morning.

Sixty thousand letters containing money went to the dead letter office in 1938.
