Food Stamp Official Explains 'Surplus Foods'

In an effort to clarify a rather common misunderstanding concerning the operation of the Federal Food Stamp Plan, which is scheduled to begin operating Feb. 1, 1940, in Los Angeles county, Buell F. Mahen, acting local administrator of the plan, has issued the following statement:

"Many people seem to be under the impression that surplus foods are something distinct and apart from the foods normally carried by their neighborhood grocery store. This, however, is not the case. With reference to the surplus foods which children participants may obtain with their surplus food stamps from their grocery shelves, these are identically the same foods, and are at identically the same prices as if they paid cash. In other words, persons using the food order stamps at their face value of 25 cents each, may shop from store to store in obtaining the brands of their choice at competitive prices.

"Further, these surplus foods are not handled or distributed to the grocers by the Government. They are among the regular food items normally stocked by the retail food merchant and carried on his shelves for cash customers. They have been purchased by the retailer, usually through his wholesaler, from the farmers, and the Government has nothing to do with this distribution through the normal channels.

Is Wholly Voluntary
"This new plan should not be confused with the former method in operation in Los Angeles county whereby foods were given needy individuals direct from warehouse depots. This direct distribution will be discontinued with the inauguration of the Food Stamp Plan in this area.

"Under the Food Stamp Plan eligible persons comprising more than 200,000 people in Los Angeles County, will have the opportunity of receiving 50 percent more food for their money. Participation in the plan is wholly voluntary. No one has to take part. However, by buying food order stamps as provided under the plan, and using these in place of cash, they will be able to obtain $1.50 worth of food for each $1 they spend for the stamps.

"Participating grocers and other retail food stores throughout Los Angeles county will accept the food order stamps exactly the same as cash for the designated purchases. The food stamps they buy will be good for any brands of all foods sold for household consumption, whether in surplus or not. They will not, however, be good for any alcoholic beverages or tobacco products. The surplus food stamps they will receive free will be good only for the items that are officially designated by the Secretary of Agriculture, and so listed in the participating food stores.

"Therefore, the extra 50 percent of foods these needy persons receive free are surplus foods. In the case of Los Angeles county it is estimated that some $6,000,000 annually in additional volume of surplus foods will move through established food trade channels to needy persons to the direct benefit of the farmers, general business, and public assistance households."

The local SRA store where clients may buy the stamps is located at 1215 El Prado.

Dorothy McMillan Feted At Unique Bathroom Shower

"Blue Orchids" might well have been the theme of one of this season's loveliest prenuptial fetes—only the orchids weren't blue! However, Mrs. Ray Casey of Los Angeles did use beautiful potted orchids in her living room Saturday afternoon when she entertained at a combined bridge luncheon and bathroom shower for Dorothy McMillan, popular bride-elect, whose marriage to George Thomas Edwards will be Saturday, April 6.

New and different was the novel presentation method employed by the hostess of the rose dust and light blue shower gifts presented to the honoree, using as she did a burlesque arm bouquet of fern leaves and varicolored balloons "blooms." Inside each "bloom," which Miss McMillan was instructed to puncture, was the poetic clue to her hidden gifts. Attractive arrangements of sparkling crystal appointments, pink camellias and harmonizing tapers lent a note of charm to the buffet luncheon table.

Prizes for high-score bridge tallies went to Sam Levy and Mrs. Richard Smith. Mrs. Wallace Post and Miss McMillan won consolation prizes. Invited to the event, in addition to Mrs. Levy, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Post, were Mesdames Mildred Lancaster, Harold Appenzeller, George Peckham, Grover Whyte, John McMillan, Joe Klink and Margaret Mills; Warren McMillan, Jr., and Mayne Ebbert of Los Angeles, Hayes Hertford of Riverside and James McCaghren of Glendale.

Girls Honor Mothers at Banquet and Theatre Fete Tuesday Night

Camera! Places! Lights! Let 'er go for that social "shot" of the gayest and most festive semi-annual social event of the Girls Athletic Association of Torrance high school. The event, the annual Mother and Daughter banquet, was held Tuesday night in the heart of Hollywood as an appropriate setting for the dinner theme, "Going Hollywood."

In keeping with the spirit of the occasion, more than 65 guests enjoyed a typical Italian dinner at a popular film restaurant followed by a theatre party.

In charge of arrangements for the dinner fete was Miss Muriel Duncan, athletic director for the high school. Absent guest of honor was Principal Thomas H. Elson who received a large bouquet just as the young women were being seated for dinner. The gesture was one of friendliness and good will on the part of student members of the association.

Following dinner, Arlyss Fossum was installed 1940 G. A. A. president. Retiring president was Norrine Schroeder. Awards were then presented to association members who had made six first teams in six different sports during the past three years. Especially honored was Elsa Norman who received a two-star letter for special recognition of her outstanding work on the school's volleyball and basketball teams.

Letters were also awarded Lois Jayne Allen, Rudella Bays, Arlyss Fossum, Dorothy Hamman, Jeanne Howe, Norrine Schroeder, Agnes Schopinsky, Thelma Wright and Lorraine Redadow.

Following the address of welcome by Miss Schroeder, the dinner program continued with an appropriate original poem by Miss Schroeder and Audrey Stanley entitled, "To Mother." A vocal solo by Harriett Pegors accompanied by Virginia Hall, a "Tribute to Principal Elson" by Miss Redadow, a group of musical selections by Maxine Clark, greeting from the mothers by Mrs. I. C.
