

Anonymous Poet Advises Prospective Police Rookies

Having made himself known to The Herald, "Anon"—author of the following poetic comment on the local event—herewith has the satisfaction of seeing his effort in print. "Anon" still prefers to shroud his identity—perhaps fearing reprisals from his firemen-friends. Here is his

ODE TO PROSPECTIVE ROOKIES

Exams are soon to be given For police and firemen, et cet For captain, sergeants and flat-feet
And many who take them, you bet
Will learn too late of their error, In making their choice where to get.
For the life of Riley, my tyros,
Is the life of the firemen's crew.
They yearn for any excitement,
And pray, just for something to do.

Pondering his own lot, when he's old,
When the spring has fled from his sinew
And arthritis creeps into his bones
And would trade all his hope of heaven
And anything else that he owns,
For a chance to be just a fireman
And be free from the gripes and the groans.
So if you have made your decision,
Stand by the result of the test Give all that you have to the effort, Content, that you've done your best.
You've decided that you'll be a "copper"
And stand the storms with the men
Or you'll join up with the boys, in the firehouse
And they'll go back to their checkers again.

At night, they are snug in their blankets
While the rain patters down on the roof
But outside in the storm, the poor copper Stands, chilled from head to his hoof.
He thinks of the hand that fate
dealt him,
Or the error he made. That was when,
He signed his first application
With a fearless stroke of his pen.
His mind goes back through the ages,
Or at least to him so it seems,
When the urge to be a police-
Was the height of his rosy young dreams.
But now, with his years of experience
And the glamour gone from the task,
Just to trade with a dumb lucky fireman
Is the only one thing he would ask.
If given the choice of his wishes,
By the powers that are, or to be,
And to warn all those who might follow,
Not to make the same boner that he Made, when he chose to be a policeman,
Instead of making the Torrance
F. D.
So many things he might tell you
And reasons, no end, he could give.
Why the life of a fortunate fire-
Is the life that he'd like to live.
He thinks of their hours of leisure Free from danger, damp and from cold, While his mind slips into the future

Huge Sewer Line Extension Project Asked of WPA

Extension of the Torrance trunk of the county sanitation district system at an estimated cost of $41,800 and construction of a lateral system and house connections at an estimated cost of $135,200 is part of the Sanitation Districts' construction program during 1940, it was learned today.

The two projects are among nine submitted to the WPA for allocations of labor and materials. Extension of the Torrance trunk involves laying 1,800 feet of 8-inch vitrified clay pipe, 2,847 feet of 10-inch pipe, and appurtenant installations and construction work. The lateral system involves laying 20,500 feet of 8-inch pipe, 11,200 feet of house connections and repaving work. Increase in population of the Torrance district is said to require the work.

Kite Fliers Warned of Power Danger

A youngster using a string wound with a thin strand of metal, similar to string used to tie up gift packages, narrowly escaped serious injury in North Torrance Monday while flying a kite. The kite came into contact with a power pole, causing a short circuit but the child was unharmed, according to Officer Harry Slover.

He urges parents to warn their children about flying kites near power lines or using any kind of wire or metal-covered string to guide their fliers. In the world of football, he said, he finds the Harvards are using a right guard named Endicott Peabody, probably as a decoy.—Detroit News.

MAIL CARRIER GIVEN MEDAL FOR DRIVING

Two years of driving without an accident are worth a medal to any motorist . . . but few receive such awards.

However, Uncle Sam—in the person of Postmaster General James A. Farley—actually makes such a presentation and the first local winner is Clyde E. McNew, substitute carrier, who pilots the Torrance postoffice's delivery truck.

Postmaster Earl Conner pinned the medal with a two-year bar hanging from it on McNew's jacket last Friday afternoon. Uses Small Truck

"Don't let this award go to your head, Mac," Conner cautioned the grinning recipient, "and don't go around banging off a few choice fenders just because you're wearing this gold badge."

McNew, who lives with his wife and three youngsters at 1634 Madrid avenue, has been employed at the postoffice since June, 1936. He delivers parcel post and mail on the mounted route using a small truck.

Postmaster Conner certified Careful Driver McNew after he had piloted the machine for 1,565 hours in 1937 and more than 2,000 more hours in 1938 without even scratching the paint of his truck or any other vehicle.

Episcopal Men Hear Plea for U. S. Unity By Dr. A. Correy

A plea for American unity was voiced by Dr. Arthur Correy, director of public relations for California Teachers Association, who addressed 40 members of the Episcopal Men's club at their dinner meeting in the Episcopal guild hall Tuesday evening.

In his address the speaker stated "this nation has over half of the world's wealth, one fifth of the world's population, the intelligence and ability to solve our problems. It with these advantages we cannot work together to accomplish our aims we deserve failure." Liberty, said Dr. Correy, is not license but freedom under law. J. Wallace Post, president of the Episcopal Men's Club introduced the speaker.
