This is Free Nation: Let's Keep It So

God and the Founding Fathers bestowed upon the people of the United States the priceless boon of liberty. The life of the Republic is in the keeping of its people who have repeatedly been warned that eternal vigilance must guard their freedom.

Bureaucracy, the last step before dictatorship, is endeavoring to entrench and perpetuate itself at Washington, and to this end would smash all principles and traditions of our Democratic form of Government. Subversive political activity, which has risen to the top of a madly boiling pot cooking up the tripe of economic experimentation over the fires of Communism, is seeking to smash precedent and tradition upon which our nation has thrived and prospered.

The people of California have had a recent example of the ineffable nerve and gall of this Washington clique of political opportunists.

An attempt has been made to set up a political dictatorship over the Democratic Party of California and the members of our party are now asked to bow the knee in submission so that this "dictator" can control the delegation to their National Convention and dispose of their votes at his own sweet will.

Democrats of California have never submitted to carpetbagging or remote control over their Party, and history will not be changed at the primary of May 7th.

It is an irrefutable fact that the delegation pledged to the nomination of John N. Garner is the only delegation before the Democratic electorate of California which has a known candidate for the Presidential nomination.

The old Trojan horse tactics are being employed by the other delegations to insinuate themselves within the walls of the convention.

The Democrats of California have never yet bought a pig in a poke or kept a blind date with a National Convention, nor will they do so when they go to the polls next Tuesday. They will vote with their eyes open; they will vote for a true and loyal Democrat who has served his country and his party faithfully and loyally throughout his adult life; they will vote for the delegation pledged to John N. Garner and all hell can't stop them!

This verse from Proverbs, "The way of the Lord is strength to the upright; but destruction shall be to the workers of iniquity," constitutes the Golden Text in the Lesson-Sermon on "Everlasting Punishment" on Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientists.

The Lesson-Sermon presents also these words about Jesus from Matthew: "And seeing the multitudes, he went up into a mountain: and when he was set his disciples came unto him: And he opened his mouth, and taught them, saying, . . . Ye have heard that it was said by them of old time, Thou shalt not kill: . . . But I say unto you, That whosoever is angry with his brother without a cause shall be in danger of the judgment. . . . Therefore if thou bring thy gift to the altar, and there rememberest that thy brother hath ought against thee: Leave there thy gift before the altar, and go thy way; first be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift."

Among the selections from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, are these statements: "The destruction of sin is the divine method of pardon. Divine Life destroys death, Truth destroys error, and Love destroys hate. Being destroyed, sin needs no other form of forgiveness. Does not God's pardon, destroying any one sin, prophesy and involve the final destruction of all sin?"

Bandini, Author is Rotary Speaker

Ralph Bandini, scion of a well-known pioneer California family and an author of note, will address members and guests of the Torrance Rotary club tonight on "Early California." He will be presented by Dave Roberts. Bandini is an accomplished, entertaining speaker. His articles have appeared in book form, as well as in the Satevepost and Los Angeles Times.

ANSWER—Now, folks, if you know how to answer this mother, go to it, because I do not feel that anything can be done. If I were the mother I would be rather proud of the fact that twenty years from now one of the boys might be leading a scientific expedition to Mars, or some other planet, to discover the relationship between the animal life of this planet, and a neighboring one. And I would be very proud to know that my other son might be the governor of the state, a charming speaker at businessmen's conventions, and a leader in the social life of the community.

I have just read again "The Life of Fabre," for about the tenth time. I can't see that his mother could have done anything in an attempt to make him into a jolly Bull Moose or Elk. In fact, his parents and friends tried for sixty years to make him into something he could not be, and not until he was sixty years of age did he get a chance to study animal life. The last thirty years of his life, for he lived to be ninety-two were

Live Wire Kills Man After Auto Crash

Swerving his car to avoid a black cat that was leaping across Redondo boulevard a mile and a half west of Western avenue, Marlowe E. Iverson, 27, of Redondo Beach, accidentally bumped into the rear of a car ahead of him and careened off diagonally across the highway to hit a power pole about 7:30 Thursday night.

Seconds later, Frank R. Stackley, 35, of Redondo Beach, a passenger in the car that was struck by Iverson's machine was dead. He had been electrocuted when he came in contact with a 4400-volt power line which had fallen across Iverson's car. The cat was also killed. It had been run over.

Stackley had rushed to the rescue of Iverson and his companion, Miss Betty Brown, 21, of Los Angeles. As he reached to open the damaged car's door to release Miss Brown, who was only slightly hurt, he touched the live wire.

In County Territory The Torrance fire department inhalator squad, under Fire Chief J. E. McMaster, worked for more than two hours in a vain attempt to revive him.

Stackley was riding with Vincent Mazullo of Los Angeles. Iverson suffered a broken knee from the impact of his car with the power pole and was treated at Torrance Memorial hospital. Iverson's car struck Mazullo's on the side of the right rear fender as he swerved to avoid the cat.

Mazullo's machine traveled about 300 feet before it stopped off the highway and Stackley ran back to assist the pair in the car that hit the power pole, local police reported.

The accident occurred in county territory, just outside Torrance city limits so the fatality does not count on the city's traffic record for the year.

Judge Fines Job Fund Chiseler

Declaring war on all chiselers on the Unemployment Insurance Fund of the state, Judge Frank Parent of the Inglewood township court at Gardena, yesterday sentenced George Rife of Redondo Beach to pay a fine of $100 or serve 50 days in the county jail.

"Cases of this sort are becoming all too prevalent," stated Judge Parent, "and I propose to punish everyone found guilty of chiseling on the funds established for those entitled to its benefits, the full measure of the law."

Rife was found guilty on charges preferred by the Torrance-South Bay office of the California Department of Employment that he had obtained $75 in unemployment insurance benefits during a time in which he actually earned $133.50 in private employment.

School Paper's Staff Visits Herald Plant

Eager to see how a real newspaper is edited and published, the entire staff of the Torrance elementary school "News" toured The Herald plant, accompanied by their faculty advisor, Mrs. Helen Neff, last Thursday afternoon. They were conducted on their tour by Michael Straszer, city editor.

Students in the party were JoAnn Cheesman, editor of the school "News"; Downing Yoshida, assistant; Bill Stanley and Donald Fulton, boys' sports; Charlyn Buffalo and Marjory Rios, girls' sports; George Whiting and George Poh, room reporters; Billy Johnson, art editor; Nancy Ann Whyte, music editor; Forrest Turner, pressman; Pete Dodds, assistant; Emogene Held, social news; Frances Barrington and Leona Van Kralingen, proof readers; Virginia Dykes, reporter, and Terumi Kakida, exchange editor.

"The other boy is not so good in school, but he is very popular. His past ideal was Babe Ruth, and now it is Bob Feller. Even when a little child he could make speeches in Sunday school and he can stand up before a crowd now and talk on almost any subject that doesn't require much thinking. Everybody likes him."

"Now the question is, what can I do to make my other boy like my popular son, and to have the latter gain some of the good qualities of the first boy described?"

ANSWER—Now, folks, if you know how to answer this mother, go to it, because I do not feel that anything can be done. If I were the mother I would be rather proud of the fact that twenty years from now one of the boys might be leading a scientific expedition to Mars, or some other planet, to discover the relationship between the animal life of this planet, and a neighboring one. ## Parents and Children

By Arthur Dean, Sc. D.

TRAITS

We must accept children as they are . . . That is, so far as their inborn traits are concerned, says Dr. Dean in this illuminating article and answers to interesting letters. If anyone knows how to produce genius in children the world is waiting for the magic formula.

spent in doing the sort of thing he wanted to do since he was a boy. The first sixty years were spent in trying to please the fancies of his parents and his neighbors.

If anyone in my audience knows how to make a Fabre, Edison, Burroughs, Agassiz, Einstein, or Millikan into a Jimmy Durante, a Bing Crosby, a Rudy Vallee, or an Eddie Cantor, kindly rise up and tell us. We are waiting.

PA SAID, "BEAT IT"

(Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

"My father doesn't like me to have dates, but mother doesn't mind. One night I went to a marshmallow roast and a boy I like a lot brought me home and came in for a few minutes. It was just ten o'clock and my dad came into the room and told the boy to 'beat it home, ten o'clock is bedtime.'"

"The boy is friendly to me but doesn't ask me for any more dates. How can I get him to come back and be as friendly as formerly?"

ANSWER—Should not think the boy would be looking for more dates with you. If he thinks he made a mistake after having mother explain to him some rather pertinent facts about the need for boy and girl relationship, you might write a note asking him to come to the house, adding that both your mother and father will be glad to have him come.

In 1925, while exploring Sand Cave, a dislodged boulder fell on his leg in a narrow passageway, 65 feet underground. Twenty-four hours later he was located and then began one of the most publicized life saving attempts in history. All efforts failed. On the third day he lost his mind. On the fifth day he died. Eighty-three days later his body was recovered and buried on his father's farm near the entrance of the cave he discovered. Two years later, by State permit, the remains were moved to the cave's interior.

In 1930 vandals broke into the cave, stole the body and threw it over a nearby cliff. It missed going into the river by several feet and was recovered. Cave jealousy was blamed.

1937 Car Thief Held by G-Men in Minneapolis

"Way back in September, 1937 George Hall of Los Angeles had his car stolen from a parking place near the Columbia Steel plant.

Last Thursday the machine was recovered by police in Minneapolis, Minn., and the asserted thief is now in custody of the Federal Bureau of Investigation awaiting prosecution under the Dyer Act, a Federal statute aimed at car thieves who drive their loot across state lines.

The suspect is Archie Ward Hubbard, formerly of Wilmington, who attempted to sell the car to a Minneapolis car dealer. Police Chief John Stroth, after consulting county authorities, decided to let the F.B.I. handle the case in the Minnesota city rather than incur the expense of extraditing Hubbard for trial here.
