Over 150 Attend Bridge Luncheon at Laughon Patio

In the beautiful garden setting at the home of Mrs. W. I. Laughon, 1452 El Prado, members of the Torrance Woman's Club and their friends were entertained Wednesday afternoon, July 31, at a benefit bridge luncheon. More than 150 attended.

Proceeds were shared by the club and Torrance Red Cross War Relief Fund.

A display of articles completed by Red Cross workers, under the direction of Mesdames M. A. Wright, chairman American Red Cross Torrance Branch; L. G. Barkdull, O. A. Kresse and L. W. Ralston, was on exhibition.

Awards for contract were received by Mesdames L. C. Burger, Sam Levy and Walter Claus; auction high scores were held by Mrs. Chas. A. Curtiss and Mrs. John Disario while Mrs. Richard Watson and Mrs. Cook received prizes for scoring in 500 and Mrs. Lodina Marien of Redondo Beach captured the pinocchio prize.

The chairman wishes to thank Mrs. Laughon for her many courtesies and provision of all refreshments served and the following merchants who provided prizes for the affair: Baker Smith, J. C. Penney's, Star Furniture Company, Newberry's, Adams Dress Shop, Discount Drug, R. B. Cut Rate Drug, also to the National Home Appliance for transporting chairs and equipment and Mesdames Fred Quaggin and F. P. Kneisler for baking cakes furnished for the benefit drawing.

SHOWER HONORS LOMITA MATRON

Mrs. E. F. Peck was guest of honor at the home of Mrs. J. J. MacDonald last Friday evening. Sweet peas and larkspur accented the pink and white arrangement used in accessories and menu. Following the presentation of many beautiful gifts in a decorated bassinet, bridge furnished diversion for the group with Mesdames Halloran, Harrison and O'Toole as high score holders at bridge.

Those present were the honoree and Mesdames John Harrison of Palos Verdes, George Webb, Carl La Pont and William Brown of Long Beach, J. Capalonga and T. Halloran of Wilmington, Nelson Baker and A. E. Phelan of Huntington Park, Hector McNeil of South Gate, John Sullivan, J. O'Toole, J. S. Miller, the Misses Celina McNeil, Rosa and Katherine Ortmann and the hostess.

FOR 10 YEARS THE QUALITY DOG FOOD

NOW BETTER THAN EVER!

DOYLE'S Supreme Dog and Cat Food

CHAD HANNA by Walter Edmonds: This is the story of a founding canal boy on the Erie Canal in the middle of the 19th Century, and of the super-superb small circus of those days. Easy-going friendly wanderings through a land of country taverns and canal villages; rival carnivals and runaway slaves make delightful adventure reading. You feel what life was like a hundred years ago when America was young like Chad. You will read and chuckle and "re-capture considerable" of the small-boy glory of the days of a one-ring circus and pink lemonade.

TO THE LOST WORLD by Paul A. Zahl: The Northern wilds of South America are best known to our world through books by authors who did not explore the country. Conan Doyle's "Lost World" so familiar to many and William Hudson's "Green Mansions" were drawn largely from imagination. Dr. Zahl's book is the actual record of an expedition through the jungle of that great isolated and unknown plateau in Venezuela. The scenery, the author reports, is no less spectacular than that of fiction. The narrative of the expedition is informative and enthusiastic, and whether the topic is scenery, ants, Indians or diamond prospecting, it is portrayed in absorbing and adventurous fashion.

HOW GREEN WAS MY VALLEY by Richard Llewellyn: In singing rhythm like the Welsh speech, Huw Morgan tells the story of himself and his coal-mining village as it was lived three decades ago. It is a noble story, simple but heroic in quality and full of profound love for mankind and nature. "A brilliant portrayal of a little world of intensely real men and women and the workings of the human heart." A great book.

COME SPRING by Ben Ames Williams: Here is something new in American fiction — a novel about the actual men and women who conquered the wilderness. Based on the true history of an actual Maine village, all but one of the people in the book really lived. The author shows the drama in the lives of the typical pioneer—but the fascination lies in the intimacy and warmth, the realistic detail of the picture of day-by-day life of the American frontiersman who arrived shortly after the Declaration of Independence in the Maine wilderness to carve out a new land.

UNCLE SNOWBALL by Frances Frost: This is a book of the armchair variety of pleasant recollections of the country. The story follows the seasons around on a little mountain farm. All the sensations of country living and shrill voices of children swing in the cycle of that lovable sinner Uncle Snowball. As New England people say, he was a "character" and as he puts it: "Some folks think I have a washer wore out in my head somewhere." His name, George Benedict Anthony Maurice LeDoux, becomes Uncle Snowball and the Hayward family rescued him from a billboard and adopted him, fully appreciated his worth. Full of roaring good humor, fine old ballads and rhymes (for Uncle Snowball always sings and especially well after a session with the little brown jug), it is a novel of delicate characterization and deep emotion.

Mrs. Ann Hanson of Los Angeles, formerly of Torrance, was a guest at the J. W. McMillan home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Johnston were recent visitors at San Francisco, Sacramento and Pittsburgh.

Mrs. George Youngkins of Vandegrift, Pa., is a guest at the E. M. Johnston home. She is a sister of Mrs. Johnston.
