A Great Dam Rises, in Blocks

From top of cableway head lower, 700 feet above Sacramento River, this is way embryo Shasta Dam looks after 40,000 cubic yards of concrete have been poured. Six million cubic yards will be poured, under supervision of U. S. Bureau of Reclamation, in 50-foot square blocks which are raised in alternate rows in successive five-foot lifts. There are five trucks in arrow-marked circle at left, incidentally.

Mrs. John Salm and daughter Eleanor left this week for a month's visit with Mrs. Salm's mother, Mrs. George Lubergen, at Grand Rapids, Mich.

Ceremonies Mark Start of Lomita Storm Drain Job

Ceremonies inaugurating construction work by WPA on the first unit of the $1,200,000 Lomita storm drain, one of the largest WPA undertakings in Los Angeles this year, were held at Lomita boulevard and Normandie avenue yesterday afternoon. Supervisor Oscar Hauge, WPA Administrator Herbert C. Legg, County Engineer Alfred Jones, Norman Gardiner, president of the Lomita Chamber of Commerce, and others spoke.

Musical portion of the program was supplied by the Mexican Tipica orchestra of WPA Music Project, with Raquel and Lucinda, Spanish dancers, performing in costume.

Employing nearly 500 WPA workers for three months, the first unit of the huge project will cost $434,893, and will parallel Lomita boulevard from Bixby Slough north of Vermont to President avenue in Lomita. Nearly a mile of concrete tunneling, large enough to drive a small car thru, will be constructed, with connecting sewers, street resurfacing and other work.

Sponsored by Los Angeles county, the Lomita project represents a unit of the $3,766,555 county-wide WPA program for improvement of flood control and drainage facilities. It has been estimated that nearly three years will be required for its completion.

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE

Clifton A. Hix who is seeking nomination for Congress is well known in Torrance and Lomita. Long active in veteran affairs, Hix has served as Americanism chairman and chairman of the National defense for the Los Angeles County Council of the American Legion, as well as commander of the San Pedro Post and the L. A. County Council.

Bitterly opposed to all forms of subversive activities attempting to undermine American democracy, Hix has spent the last ten years studying and fighting those groups whose principles are contrary to America's well being. He is strongly supported by Dr. John R. Lechner, well-known director of the Legion's Americanism Educational League.

Torrance Youths Admit Thefts of Scrap Iron Here

Before ordering the trio to appear before him today for sentencing, City Judge Robert Lessing delivered a stern lecture to three local youths who had pleaded guilty Tuesday to nine counts of petty theft of scrap iron and oil field equipment involving sums less than $200. They had been picked up by Long Beach police, turned over to sheriff's officers who in turn delivered them to local authorities.

One of the trio, Percy LeRoy Thompson, 18, of 2624 Carson street, charged with three counts of petty theft, was still under probation for a similar theft less than six months ago. Edward Eugene Newton, 22, 1317 Cedar street, admitted guilt to five counts of pilfering, his first offenses, and Dick T. Hale, 18, 1437 22nd street, entered a guilty plea to one theft count.

No Further Leniency
Judge Lessing lectured the trio after young Thompson insisted that "the stuff we took was valueless and we thought it was only junk." Police Chief John Stroth testified that some of the material he and young Newton took to Long Beach junk dealers at various times over a two or three-week period was new equipment and that the amount the youths received from their sale of stolen property was close to $100.

"I instruct all of you to see Harry Slover, probation officer, so that he can investigate your pleas for probation but in the case of Thompson I don't think I'll recommend any further leniency. You young men must know that property that isn't yours is not for your hands. If you don't know that then I think jail is the place for you," the court said in part.

Hale and Thompson today were each given six months jail sentences which were suspended on condition that (1) they are not re-arrested for two years for any offense involving the taking of property not belonging to them or the use of liquor, and (2) that they report to Probation Officer Harry Slover twice a week for six months.

Because young Newton was charged with a first offense and because he told the court he was trying to enlist in the Navy, Judge Lessing dismissed the count against him, believing that even a suspended sentence would prevent his enlistment.

Emotional Life of Child Dependent On Parent Love

LOS ANGELES — The small child is a better psychologist than any of his elders when it comes to emotional reactions. Gladys H. Groves, University of North Carolina faculty member and pioneer in preparation for marriage instruction in American schools, told delegates to a conference on Family Relations convening on the Los Angeles campus of the University of California.

"The child is a better psychologist than his elders—he has to be because his very existence depends upon it. The comic page query, 'Does mamma love papa?' is not as funny as it is supposed to be. The answer to that question is vitally necessary to the emotional stability of a child. To know that his mother and father do not love each other is upsetting to his own emotional existence. He has to know the answer to that question to be assured that all is well within his own small world.

"Nor can a parent answer that question with any equivocation that a child would not understand. One parent may shrug aside the question with an assured laugh and its very assurance reassures the child who knows that the parent does not have to protest and explain a love that he considers to be entirely obvious, while a parent who must explain and urge a situation that does not exist does not fool a child who unerringly feels the uncertainty and false-ness behind the protestation," declared the educator who also stressed the fact that stability in family relationships cannot begin too early in the life of a child, and might well be thought of even as early in the educational scheme as the nursery school.

Marriage Laws Held Barrier to Romance, Profit

SACRAMENTO (U.P.) — With all the rumbling going on, it seems likely that an organized effort will be made in the legislature to change the marriage laws to stop the increasing flow of romantic couples across the state lines into Nevada and Arizona.

The three-day "gin marriage" law did its share to slow down the wedding business some years ago but the medical examination statute put into effect after the 1939 legislative session almost sounded the death knell for a big volume of marriages in the state.

Strangely enough, there is little opposition to the medical test, in the light of the scientific advantages advocated in its defense. But the two laws combined bring the complaints. Critics declare that the medical test provides enough delay to stop hasty marriages and makes the three-day wait unnecessary. The routine of having a medical examination takes enough time to discourage too-quick weddings or those under the spell of intoxication or impulse.

"Conscription Rush"
The best yardstick of the new trend is the fact that 18,880 couples were married in California during the first six months of this year, as compared to 29,568 for the same period a year ago. That slump means a definite loss in dollars and cents to every community in the state, not to mention those close enough to the state borders to be directly influenced.

To show the detailed decrease, here are the six months period figures: there were 2890 weddings in January, 1940, as compared with 4680 in 1939; February, 2555 and 3900; March, 2535, 4019; April, 3022, 4569; May, 2939, 4918; June, 4939, 7432. A more current phase of the wedding question is the present rush to avoid conscription or military service by acquiring a "dependent" in a hurry. Many of these couples are hurrying off to Reno or Las Vegas or some Arizona town instead of spending their money for license, flowers, minister, refreshments, honeymoon and other incidentals in California.

Mrs. Bruce Bilger of Phoenix, Ariz., and formerly of Torrance, was a guest Monday at the C. C. Schultz home.
