

Lilly Dache's Accent Earned Her a Fortune

BUT for a lucky break, for a happy turn of fate, many are the famous people who would have suffered obscurity and thin pocket books.

Take Lilly Dache for example. One of America's top flight hat designers, she was once a sales girl in Macy's, Doris Thorne's village in the August issue of Cosmopolitan magazine.

Lilly Dache

With sales slips and was promptly fired. But Lilly Dache got a $25 a week job in a little hat shop patronized by a number of famous girls. Lilly saw how many hats they bought, Miss Thorne's says, and resolved to save enough money to buy the establishment herself. She did, and now she sells hats for as much as she used to get in a week.

Alexander de Seversky, the plane designer is another whom fate smiled upon, according to Miss Thorne. For months, she says, he labored over an Army pursuit plane for a government competition. But at the final test found his engine wouldn't work.

Donald Huston of Long Beach, brother of the bride, sang "In Apple Blossom Time", accompanied by Mrs. Huston at the organ. Mrs. Huston also played the processionals, the bridal song from "Lohengrin". The bride, wearing white or-

Miss Joyce McKinley of Waltham, groomed and carrying a bouquet of pink sweet peas and blue delphinium, acted as bridesmaid and Norman Dean, of Waltham, served as best man. Fifty friends and relatives were present at the ceremony and reception following at the bride's home with the bride cutting the three-tiered wedding cake.
