

Child Hurt by Car Running Across Street

Little Demartha Guggar will stop, look and listen in the future before she crosses streets. She was severely cut and bruised Monday when she was struck by a car driven by Howard I. Pratt of 728 Portola avenue, as she darted across Portola between Sartori and Maricopa aves.

The child, aged three and one-half years, was taken to Torrance Memorial hospital for treatment of her injuries. She lives at 705-A Sartori ave. Pratt said the little girl ran in the street directly in front of his car and he was unable to avoid striking her.

Accepting Criticism Corrects Ego Faults

IN understanding personalities, the most important key is the fact that every human being begins in infancy to form a mental picture of himself. From birth, the baby gathers impressions about how important or unimportant he is, and what he can or cannot do. These impressions make up his mental image which he believes to be a true one.

Such mental pictures are imperfect, write Roy Dickerson and Fritz Kunkel in the August issue of Good Housekeeping magazine, and it is psychologically significant that the individual feels that his mental image correctly depicts him. This inaccurate picture is called Ego, and is important because every individual tends to play the part of the person he thinks he is.

There are four basic Ego patterns, the authors contend, and they call them Nero, Clinging Vine, Star, and Gaby. The Nero, a superiority pattern, is apparent in a person charming and gracious to friends, but a tyrant at home; in social or business activities the tendency to dominate is again noticeable. An entirely different type, the authors point out, is the Clinging Vine. Here is a capable person, desirous of getting ahead, but through the necessity of depending on someone else, unable to make decisions promptly and at the right time. Still another sort is the Star pattern. This type is able and influential but deeply jealous of his prestige, and rages inwardly when his path is crossed. The fourth, or Gaby type, is also capable, but so imbued with thought that the rest of the world is against him, that his life is frustrated.

It is the authors' premise that no person conforms to any one Ego pattern, but is rather a mixture in varying degrees of two or more basic types. To overcome the handicaps of the traits displayed by these familiar types, they have made the following common sense suggestions which are in fact the best applied psychology.

1. Learn how to face criticism. The more criticism hurts, the more is the probability that it contains some truth. 2. Always be on the lookout for sound advice. Do not delude yourself into believing you are wise or strong enough to work out all your problems yourself. 3. Lose yourself objectively in a good cause. As far as you can, replace the conscious or unconscious efforts to serve your Ego with service to others. 4. Seek new experiences in fields in which you are most underdeveloped. Everyone should seek to enlarge his experiences by doing things that are most difficult for him.

What They Said One War Ago
(From August Good Housekeeping Magazine)

We are fighting for a worthy purpose, and shall not lay down our arms until that purpose has been achieved—King George V.

We must let ourselves be killed on the spot rather than retreat—General Joffre.

Remember that the German people are the chosen of God—Kaiser Wilhelm II.

We have room for but one language here, and that is the English language—Theodore Roosevelt.

They shall not pass—Marshal Petain.

We are handicapped by fair play. Principle hampers our strength. We fight with ideals dragging at our arms—Herbert Kaufman.

SPEED UP RIFLING
United States automobile engineers, presented with the problem of speeding up the process of rifling machine gun barrels, have developed a method that completes the job in one-thirtieth the time formerly required by government arsenals. The cutting tool now does in two operations what formerly required 60.

SAVE CASH EVERY DAY AT A&P!
Join the 6,000,000 'Value Wise' Women

It's just plain common sense to investigate the reason why 6,000,000 smart value-wise women come to A&P day in and day out. Getting a lot of good quality foods for a little money, explains it in a nutshell.

It's an old A&P custom to give more for less money. Come in and see for yourself how true this is. It's possible because

A&P buys huge quantities of fine foods direct from producers. This eliminates those in-between profits which otherwise would make our prices higher. Our cash selling policy cuts out credit losses. Our "take-your-bargains-with-you" policy cuts out expensive delivery service. You profit by paying less . . . getting more for your money.
