

Fire Protection at Doak Plant in Hands of Committee

years' experience on the Los Angeles fire department in charge of our fire protection service. We have additional equipment on order and we have been assured by Frank Dalton of the D & M Machine Shop across the street that we may use his complete plant fire apparatus in case of an emergency.

In support of his contention, made at city council meeting March 9, that the Doak plant lacked fire walls and contained serious hazards, Engineer Jain said he had reported the circumstances at a meeting of city building inspectors and they agreed that we were justified in asking for remedies.

Amicable Settlement

Amicable settlement of the matter was foreseen by Mayor McGuire who urged that the matter be left in the hands of a committee. He assured the Doak officials that the city wanted to do all in its power to help the war plant maintain production and said he felt assured that the workers' safety was being adequately provided.

In addition to Doak, the plant officials at the conference were Nelson E. Grace, vice-president and plant manager; Stephen F. Clineff, assistant to the president; Reed H. Parkin, secretary-treasurer; Leonard Comegys, and Clyde M. Johnson, plant engineer.

More Foods Come Under Quota Plan Starting Mar. 29

Apr. 18 D—(16 points) April 30
Apr. 25 E—(18 points) (To be announced)

No decision yet has been reached on "freezing" retail sales of any of the rationed items. In no event, however, will there be a "freeze" of meat sales.

No Declarations
Consumers will not be asked to declare stocks on hand as with coffee and canned food-stuffs. This exception also includes food stocks in frozen locker plants.

Point values of meat will be spent on a "per pound" basis. For example, housewives will have to pay a fixed number of points for a pound of tenderloin steak, a pound of pork spare ribs, a pound of pork spare ribs, a pound of lamb neck or a pound of calf liver.

Point values will depend largely on the supply situation and consumer preferences. In the case of meat cuts with a large amount of bone and fat generally will have lower point values than with little or no waste. Lamb neck, pork spare ribs and other cuts with a large bone content will have much lower point values than round steak.

Cases Also Affected
Perishable items such as brains, kidneys and hearts, also will be affected by the new program between these two buildings on El Prado.

ASSESSOR HERE

A deputy county assessor will be in Torrance every Thursday from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. until May 28 to receive declarations of taxable property. The deputy will be located in the Civic Auditorium next to the former Chamber of Commerce building and the entrance is off the area tailers to give "change" in ration stamps when a customer finds it impossible to give the exact amount of valid red stamps when making a purchase. Only one-point red stamps of any valid series may be used for this purpose.

Rationing of foodstuffs to hotels, restaurants and other so-called "institutional" users under the new program will be by allotment fixed on the basis of their sales during December, 1942. Their supplies of rationed foods will be slashed by approximately the same amount as those of private consumers.

People who eat in restaurants will not have to give up ration coupons on the spot but OPA officials said they will find portions considerably smaller than they have been hitherto.
