Know the Basic 7, Here's Group 3

For sound, robust health remember this rule: Eat some food from each of the basic seven groups every day! And don't overlook group 3 which spotlights root vegetables.
 Turnips, potatoes, parsnips, celery root, onions—here's plain, substantial fare that's rich in important food elements. Root vegetables such as these keep well and are generally inexpensive. They supply minerals, some vitamins and are a fine source of carbohydrates. Here, too, is an excellent non-irritating roughage.
 Cauliflower, kohlrabi, eggplant, beets, radishes, onions and celery are rich in minerals and nicotinic acid. Because they are low in fat, these root vegetables are good carriers for savory sauces which add both interest and calories to an otherwise plain dish.
 Serve some food from group 3 every day. To break down your family's resistance to root vegetables, try these tricks: Use shredded beets or turnips as salad ingredients or relish. Make a lima bean loaf with green pepper sauce. Serve cauliflower
