Says It's a Fact!

PROOF!

—of last week's "It's a Fact!"
The director of the National Zoological Park and the curator of mammals at the New York Zoological Park report elephants show no fear of mice.

Not Too Young to Fight for Country

Nobody in Yugoslavia is considered too young to fight for liberty. These boys of 14 and 15 were among recent battle casualties arriving at Malta. Young guerrillas bear their wounds bravely and proudly.

Athenian Society Plans War Bond Drive Wind-up

As a part of the Torrance High school campaign to purchase a $15,000 Ryan training aircraft for Uncle Sam before the conclusion of the present semester, the Athenian Society is sponsoring a high-geared war bond sales drive at the school to coincide with a simultaneous effort to return the minute man flag to its rightful and honorary position on the staff on the front grounds of the school.

Youngsters Give Talent Show For Friends

"Curtain, last call for curtain," meant a tense moment for the many youngsters who participated in the Talent Show Case presented by the Bessie Clark Studios of Inglewood and Torrance at the Moose Hall Wednesday evening, May 31.

Frank Daniels Had a Birthday And Two Parties

Frank W. Daniels had a birthday yesterday.

The chief clerk of the Torrance War Price and Ration board, he was the honor guest at two parties.

One was Sunday, when his family gave him the day, and he donned his famous mitt and had a little baseball practice with a 13-year-old grandson.

On Tuesday night, members of his office staff gathered unknown to him in his garden, with a little convivance with Mrs. Daniels, and they gave him a complete surprise.

We didn't ask him what milestone it was; he seemed to be worried most about what it will "cost him" at Rotary.

Because of the extensive scope of the campaign that aims at securing an investment of at least 50 cents in stamps from each student in the school, the Athenian Society is being bolstered in its drive by publicity and student body legislation of the council. Miss Livermore further revealed. If 90 per cent of the student body invests 50 cents or more in the United States of America, Torrance High school will once more be qualified to fly the minute man flag. The advent of the Fifth War Loan, scheduled to run from June 12 to July 8, of which public schools are pledged to play a vitally important role, is expected to provide an impetus to students to put Torrance over the top.
