World Order Day Observed in Churches

The churches of Christ in America have been called to observe next Sunday as World Order Day. Christians hold the hour has come when they must unite their forces in a common effort to win the peace. Now as never before the primacy of God in the affairs of men and nations must be proclaimed by Christians everywhere.

On this Sunday sermons on World Order will be preached from thousands of pulpits. Christians will be urged to work for the establishment of a genuine world community. The purpose will be to enlist the total strength of the churches behind an intelligent and concerted effort to achieve a world settlement consistent with Christian principles.

Primary emphasis will be given to the laying of spiritual foundations for tomorrow's world. Christians believe that under the guidance of the Holy Spirit governments may be led into the paths of peace. They believe that the eternal God revealed in Christ is the ruler of men and of nations and that His purpose in history can and will be realized. From this faith Christians derive the ethical principles upon which they believe world order must be based. All Christians are especially urged to attend church on Nov. 12.

At the Community Presbyterian Church, 2154 24th st., Lomita, World Order Day will be observed with special services morning and evening. At the morning worship the pastor will speak on "The New World of Faith."

In the evening at 7:30 Navy Chaplain Fredrick W. Brink of San Pedro will be the special speaker.

Welfare Council New Name for Social Agencies

Civic organizations, women's clubs, service clubs and other groups having legitimate interest in health and welfare planning will be eligible for membership in the Welfare Council of Metropolitan Los Angeles, which is the new name for the Council of Social Agencies. The council is now reorganized to bring about greater community participation in social planning.

In announcing the revamping of the council, Mrs. Sumner Spaulding, president, stated that the new plan has the approval of Community Welfare Federation's board of directors, headed by Judge Ralph E. Jenney.

Mrs. Spaulding said: "Planning for community services has been too exclusively the work of social agencies. It is our desire to bring the entire community into this work through properly balanced representation."

Previously, council membership was limited to public and private social organizations including 95 Community Chest agencies, other private agencies and public welfare units. It had 152 bodies in membership, known as agency members. Under the new setup groups desiring to take active part in health and welfare planning may apply for membership and the application will be acted upon by a membership committee.

Wedding and personal stationery of distinction are easily ordered by calling in person at 1336 El Prado, Torrance, or telephoning Torrance 444 or 443.
