“The War ain’t Won yet, Buddie!”

I need You down at National to help me do it!

Yes . . . those yellow-bellied Japs and those dirty Nazis are tougher to whip than we figured on. We’ve been giving ’em hell right along, but we’ve got to give ’em more if we don’t want this war to drag on for years!

That’s why I need you down at National to help me. We are making things I can’t tell you about, but they are sure badly needed right now by the boys out there on the front line. And I don’t mean perhaps!

Besides, National is a great place to work. It’s been in business here since 1912 . . . and it’s learned to make a lot of things better than anyone else’s . . . things the whole world will need for rehabilitation after the war.

So, if you are working twenty miles or so away, on something not so important to winning the war as ours . . . come on down and join your neighbors and friends at National. If you are not skilled . . . we send you to our interesting school with pay to start . . . so you can find out what you would like to do best. The war ain’t won yet, Buddie . . . I need you down at National to help me do it!
