

Welfare Council Hears Report on Pueblo Project

Enthusiastic approval was expressed to Father Cyril Wood by the Torrance Area Welfare Council Monday evening when he reported the progress of the recreation building in the Pueblo. It is estimated that the building will be completed in a month.

Of special interest was the report on local contributions to the fund, which indicated a high degree of community cooperation.

Residents of the Pueblo have been making contributions to the fund since before Christmas and the total now exceeds $250. The people of the local parish of the Church of the Nativity have made an equal contribution, following an appeal made from their pulpit last Sunday by Father Wood, and it is expected that there will be further indications of interest.

The Rotary club through individual contributions has built up a Pueblo fund of $500, to which the committee hopes to add, through a drive soliciting all clubs and organizations in Torrance.

Local 1414 C.I.O. held a popular Mexican supper and dance which brought in a total of $249.

There was discussion within the Torrance Area Welfare Council of further means of adding to the fund, as it will not be possible to complete the recreation building without additional contributions. Organizations wishing information or assistance in taking part in the drive are asked to contact Hillman Lee, chairman.

The City of Torrance has begun work on the proposed playground in connection with the recreation center. The playground will occupy the two lots already purchased by the city council for this purpose.

Father Wood also announced that application has been made to the Catholic Welfare Bureau to supply a recreation leader who would be in charge of young people's activities at the recreation hall. The Catholic Welfare Bureau is not able to arrange a capital expenditure but could possibly provide for maintenance through its affiliation with the Los Angeles Area War Chest.

Woodcraft Rangers Plan Summer Camp Activities; Take Saturday Trip

Woodcraft Rangers, in Torrance under sponsorship of the Torrance Lions Club, are making good progress in their organization and took their first Saturday trip last Saturday when they went to Hoover play ground, Los Angeles, to participate in a baseball tournament.

Charles Z. Ward, chairman of the Lions committee of guides for the Rangers, accompanied the group to Los Angeles, and he announced a number of summer camps to be conducted exclusively for Woodcraft Rangers.

One is Lake Arrowhead Camp of Woodcraft Rangers, which will open on June 27, 1945, for an eight day period to cost Woodcrafters $15 each, or a 22-day period, to cost Woodcrafters $41 each. A 15-day camp will open on July 4, to cost Woodcrafters $28 each.

Eight and 22-day camps will open on July 18 and Aug. 8, and 15-day camps will open on July 25 and Aug. 15. No Woodcrafter may stay in camp longer than the 22 day period, and costs include transportation. Instruction includes the two-fold system of Indian groups for boys 9 to 11 and Frontier groups, for boys of 12 years and older. The program includes swimming, rowing, sailing, canoeing, model boat sailing, fishing, all water sports; camp cooking, hiking, nature crafts, nature exploration, camp outs, outpost camping, archery, roping and the fiestas; Indian lore including ritual, stories, sweat baths, totem making and sand painting; crafts including whittling, model boats, leather, wild wood, first aid and fire-by-friction.

The cost includes high standard food, transportation and physical examination.

Camp Ah-Da-Hi for Woodcraft Rangers is located on the West Fork of San Gabriel Canyon, in the mountains among the trees. This camp will open June 25, but is filled until July 10, and is divided into five and eight day periods, costing Woodcrafters $5 for five days and $9 for eight days. A physical examination is required.

The third camp is Woodcraft Rangers Stanley Ranch Camp, for boys 11 to 16 years of age. This requires a medical examination, and at the ranch boys go horseback riding, swimming, and engage in camp cooking, hiking, nature craft, and similar activities. Eight-day periods start July 2, and cost is $9 for the eight days including transportation.

Reservations among the local Rangers are being taken by A. F. Wendorf, supervisor, and at the Torrance Service Center. The Rangers like the Scouts, are a community chest agency.

Senior Play at High School to Surpass Others

By ROBERT MAXFIELD

April 27, at 8:15 p.m., Torrance High school's summer class of 1945 will present the senior play, "Seven Sisters." The play is a hilarious, fast moving, three-act comedy, based on the life of old Hungary. It is expected to far surpass any other play of its kind produced by the high school players of this community.

The play was originally written by the noted Hungarian playwright, Herczeg, and was translated and adapted to its present form in 1910 by Edith Ellis Furness under the title, "Seven Girls." The copyright was renewed in 1937 and the title changed to "Seven Sisters."

When the audience files into the auditorium, the music starts, the curtain rises and the play begins, few people realize the hours and hours of preparation that go into a production like "Seven Sisters." The actual training of the cast is but a small portion of the work to be done. It is an important part, true, but no play can be a success without a well trained cast.

Take the costumes for instance. The uniforms and a few of the more elaborate costumes for "Seven Sisters" are rented; however, a large portion of them must be designed and made. The full weight of the costume designing fell upon the shoulders of Miss M. P. Anderson of the art department. She rose to the occasion and with the aid of her art classes turned out a set of fine costume designs. So beautiful were they that they occupied the entire show-case in the main hall of the high school. The girls' costumes will be made by the girls in the cast while the boys' costumes are being made through the cooperation of the P.T.A. under the direction of Mrs. L. F. Watson, chairman.

The set designing and construction is another important feature of a play of this type. The sets are being designed and built by stage craft classes under the direction of Raphael Demler, wood shop instructor. All sets are of a permanent type that may be used over again for future plays.

A vital part of any play is the publicity and ticket sales department. This is being handled by a group of three students, Philip Lisman, Bob Maxfield and Betty Fiesel. Posters have been placed in most of the business houses of Torrance and tickets are on sale at the Torrance Pharmacy and the high school student store. The price for reserved seats is 60 cents while general admission seats sell for 45 cents each.

Two First Sergeants Are Appointed

Two new first sergeants of California State Guard companies in this area were announced this week by the Adjutant General's Office, Sacramento.

James R. Wilkes, who is foundry superintendent at Columbia Steel Co., was named first sergeant of Co. H, 2nd battalion, 39th regiment, commanded by Capt. R. L. Lewellen, with headquarters in Torrance. He succeeds 2nd Lt. Bruce R. Clements to the first sergeantcy.

Aaron O. Vaughan, formerly technician, grade 4, was named first sergeant of Co. D, Wilmington, commanded by Captain S. C. Sault, of Torrance. Other recent appointments in Co. H, include that of Carl G. Munger to technician, grade 5, in the supply department. In Co. D, Leand A. Mitchell and Robert E. Talkingdon were named corporals and John D. Perkins, a private, first class.

Lions Endorse Dumbarton Oaks Peace Program

Torrance Lions Club meeting Tuesday noon adopted a resolution endorsing the Dumbarton Oaks proposals, or some organization to stop aggression, preserve the peace and promote social and economic harmony as outlined at Dumbarton, and authorized its International President D. A. Skeen to voice its support at the forthcoming San Francisco conference on international organization.

The resolution was adopted on motion of R. I. Plomert Jr., seconded by Herbert C. Allen, after Dr. Rollin R. Smith had given a report on Dumbarton Oaks and discussed various phases of the international program.

"The United States of America should use all reasonable means to assure our Allies and other nations of the world that we intend to share in the direction of and responsibility for the settlement of the war and the maintenance of peace thereafter, with force, if necessary," the resolution reads.

Copies are to be sent to President Truman, Secretary of State E. R. Stettinius, Sen. Hiram Johnson, Sen. Sheridan Downey, and Lions International officers. Smith presided at the meeting yesterday, and Bruce R. Clements was installed as a member of the club.

Kiwanians Will Attend Division Meet Wednesday

Monday night, April 23, the Torrance Kiwanis Club will be dark, and instead the meeting for that week will be on Wednesday at Palos Verdes Country Club. This is to be the first division meeting of the year. Other clubs meeting with Torrance are Inglewood, Hawthorne, Hermosa Beach, El Segundo and Gardena Valley.

At the last meeting, Past President Ernie Murchison installed three new members, George Helms, Frank Hodges and John R. Ott.

New Edison Power Line From Boulder Dam to So. Calif. Slated

A million barrels of fuel oil for Pacific war needs will be saved annually by the immediate construction of a new Southern California Edison Company major transmission line from Boulder Dam to Southern California according to C. C. Bartlett, Edison Company district manager. Preliminary field work is in progress on the project, which will cost approximately $4,500,000. The project will include construction of a 220,000 volt transmission line to connect with present facilities, and the building of a new major substation.

"Every possible measure is being taken to speed construction of the line to meet war needs as soon as possible," Mr. Bartlett said. "It is estimated that the project will be completed and in operation the latter part of this year. Its size is indicated by the fact that several months are required for the manufacture of special materials, and that after major construction work gets under way, from five to six months will be required to complete the line and the substation.

"Although Southern California receives electric power mainly from hydro-electric sources, fuel oil is used in steam-electric generating plants which operate when necessary to complement hydro-generation. Availability of this additional hydro-electric power from Boulder Dam will result in a valuable saving of fuel oil needed by our ships and planes to defeat Japan.

"Because of the wartime importance of the new line, the War Production Board has granted special approval for the purchase of materials and securing the necessary manpower."

"The 125,000 kilowatts of energy to be carried on the line will be generated at Boulder Dam by generators installed to supply power to the Metropolitan Water District and Basic Magnesium, Inc. Existing transmission facilities of the Metropolitan Water District will be used from the dam to the Hayfield pumping plant, of the Metropolitan Water District, located on the desert. From that point, the new Edison line will be built over a 130 mile route in western Riverside and San Bernardino counties to the new substation, to be known as Highgrove. The new station will supply the cities of Riverside, Colton, Redlands, San Bernardino and surrounding territory, supplementing existing facilities.

"Orders have been placed by the Edison Company for more than $2,000,000 of major items of materials that require considerable time for manufacturing, with deliveries on some expected within the next sixty days.

"Engineering for the project, including the design of the line, the substation and connections to the existing Edison system, has practically been completed. Field engineering is now in progress. Work will begin at the Hayfield terminus of the Metropolitan Water District's line. It is estimated that about 550 men will be employed at the peak of the construction activities.

"The new line will be the Edison Company's third 220,000 volt circuit from Boulder Dam. It is being built under Edison supervision by the Stone and Webster Engineering Corporation.

Of All Things! A MEAT AD

Why do we advertise meat? Isn't there a shortage? Yes, there is, but all meats and all cuts are not "short" at the same time. While we may not have all the variety that once filled our cases, we do have a good selection of delicious, nutritious, quality meats at all times and we advertise them because you have the right to know what meats are available and the prices for them. Some of the cuts may be new to your table, but they've got what it takes in juicy tenderness and full-flavored goodness to make your meals more appetizing.
