Two Fire Alarms Not 2-Alarm Fire, Keeps Lads Busy

No, it was not a two-alarm fire on Tuesday afternoon, shortly after 5:30 p. m., but two grass fires in different locations of the city — fires of a type that have been keeping the Torrance smoke-eaters busy during the past few weeks since the grass has started to dry under the warmer sun. — required the attendance of Chief J. E. McMaster and his men.

One was at 174th and Hawthorne blvd., clocked at 5:47 p. m., and the other at 236th and Pennsylvania ave. at 5:45 p. m.

Chief McMaster's warning on summer fire conditions is printed elsewhere in this edition.

No Mass Layoff At Columbia DPC Pittsburg Unit

Cutbacks in the maritime industry due to the termination of the European war will soon affect operations of Columbia Steel Company's defense plant cooperation foundry at Pittsburg, California, company officials revealed today. The extent of the discontinuance of this operation will be largely determined by orders on hand plus any future orders which may be made.

Should a complete shutdown of this operation occur, it will not affect Columbia Steel's nearby steel mill sprawling over 400 acres. Nor will there be any wholesale layoffs of the some 500 employees of the DPC foundry, inasmuch as plans have already been formulated to absorb the excess personnel into Columbia's Pittsburg works. Notices to this effect have already been posted throughout the plant by the management.

The foundry was authorized as a war measure by the War Production Board and was built by the defense plant division of Columbia Steel Company, a U. S. Steel subsidiary, and has been operated under a lease arrangement with the United States government. The plant's facilities were designed expressly for the supply of huge castings for the war maritime shipbuilding industry. With the slackening of shipbuilding activity, the need for the critical items produced by this foundry has shown a marked decrease.

Circus Will Show Here Next Week

Featuring some of the most famous stars of the circus world, performing elephants, dainty footed equestriennes high aerial thrillers, a squadron of hilarious clowns, the Al Deans Circus comes to Torrance next Tuesday and Wednesday with two performances each day sponsored by the Torrance Police and Firemen's Association for the benefit of Tartar Town, the Torrance "Teen Age" Club sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. and civic clubs.

The big tented city will be erected on the show grounds at Carson and Abalone streets by sunrise Tuesday morning. Two performances will be presented each day starting promptly at 2 and 8 p. m.

Poodles and Gracie Hanneford, two of the most famous bareback riders known to the big tops are among the many great features of the circus. Poodles is known as the greatest riding comedian of all time. Gracie Hanneford, a petite and charming brunette in her 20's is one of the most brilliant and daring riders of the sawdust ring.

Movie personalities are also featured with Tex Orton, famous for many thrilling moments in western films and the world's greatest knife throwing sensation, presents even greater thrills in the circus ring than on the screen. He throws knives from a distance of 30 feet completely encircling his pretty girl assistant.

Betty Miles is another personality familiar to western picture fans for her work in the Ken Maynard-Hoot Gibson series. Betty presents her famous educated horse, "Sonny." She is one of the most versatile riding performers in the circus being an accomplished bareback rider as well as a western trick riding champion.

Thrills of the New York World's Fair are introduced to the ring when Bassett and Bailey present their astounding equestrian feats. Jack Bassett stacks tables and chairs in a wobbly pile that reaches the peak of the big tent — then proceeds to climb this risky support to the top where he performs daring one-hand stands and other daring stunts.

Heading the high aerial thrillers is pretty Eleanore Velarde who defies death while performing her daring heel catch on the high swinging trapeze. One slip here would mean disaster as Eleanore never uses a net or other safety devices. Penny Parker is another outstanding aerial star. Parker literally ties himself in knots while swinging on a trapeze in the very dome of the tent.

Performing elephants, dogs and ponies, tight wire artists, funny clown antics, supple acrobats and many other attractions are also including in the performances.
