I STILL NEED PLANES

DOAK NEEDS YOU

Don't think that because Germany is out of the war and Hitler is dead that we can go back to peacetime tranquility. That is not true. It is going to take a great number of planes to finish off the Jap—special types of planes designed and built for this type of war. Doak Aircraft has played an important part in the war to date building important parts—they have a still bigger job ahead and need your help to do it in a hurry. Investigate now—at once, the Doak way of helping to win the war.

H. M. Lewis and Bride Arrive From Chicago

Harry Miller Lewis, R. T., 2/c and his bride of seven months arrived Monday from Chicago where he has been based at Navy Pier. At the conclusion of his 12 days leave he will report at Shoemaker for a new assignment and Mrs. Lewis will remain in Torrance for a visit.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Archer Lewis of 1830 Martina ave., invited relatives and a few intimate friends to their home Monday evening to greet the serviceman and to meet his wife. Included were Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Briney and Bob Briney and Mrs. Louise Briney, all of San Pedro; Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Neelands and Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Curtiss of this city.

Victory Gardens

Need More Gardens

A look around the county shows many of 1944 garden patches untilled in spite of higher food costs and greater prospective food shortages than ever before. The political and economic ramifications of the world food supply make it imperative that home food production be pushed to the limit. It is not too late to start a summer garden now. Get in green beans, a late planting of sweet corn, as well as cucumbers, summer squash, leaf lettuce, and many other small vegetables.

Fall Garden Preparation

Many crops will grow to better quality during the winter months than in summer here in Southern California climate. This is hard for many people from the east to realize, but California is famed for its winter shipments of broccoli, cauliflower, celery, head lettuce, spinach, and many other crops.

Make plans now for the early fertilization of an area for late August and September plantings. Organic composts or manures of various kinds should be applied two weeks to a month in advance of planting for best results. Wet the ground and spade the material under.

Fertilizing Summer Crops

Garden crops now half or two-thirds grown will benefit by the application of chemical fertilizers in shallow trenches at the side of the irrigation furrow. Supplies of nitrogen put into the ground in the spring, either as chemical fertilizers or manures, will be running low. Vigorous growth will frequently keep the vegetables ahead of pests and is, of course, desirable for many reasons—quantity, total yield, and rapid growth.

Chemical fertilizers must be used carefully during the summer when plants are growing or injury will result. Don't apply too much at one time. In general, application of sulphate of ammonia at the rate of nine ounces, or one measuring cup, for each one hundred square feet is ample. One and three-fourths pound, or four and one-half measuring cups, of Victory Garden Special fertilizer, containing 6 per cent nitrogen, 10 per cent phosphoric acid, and 5 per cent potash, will give the same amount of nitrogen.

When applied to garden crops in rows, the rate of distribution should be proportional to the distance between rows. For example, one cup of sulphate of ammonia, or four and one-half cups, of Victory Garden Special should be scattered down a shallow trench alongside of one hundred feet of rows spaced one foot apart. If the rows are two feet apart use twice as much for each 100 feet of row but divide it and put half on each side. If three feet apart, use three times as much, half on each side. This will result in the same rate of application for the area in crop.

Irrigation
When starting a new garden, be careful to get the furrows level so that water will stand from one end to the other. This will save water and will make even watering possible. Also, you'll save labor. When replanting an old garden correct the furrow slope by slight changes of direction. In one garden recently visited, furrows are fifty feet long and are level. With deep furrows the water filled the entire length and came back between the next rows. There was no waste and the gardeners could do other things while irrigating. He'd shift the hose to a new row occasionally. There was no soil washing.

Discharge from a hose will wash a hole and the dirt will be deposited a foot or so down the furrow often disturbing division of the water between two or more furrows. This washing can be avoided by placing the end of the hose in a pad laid on its side, on paper, or by tying a piece of burlap loosely over the hose, thus breaking the velocity of the water.

Dig down six to eight inches beside your garden plants after they are well established to determine how wet the soil is. This is where the roots are located. Do not attempt to keep the surface wet all the time. That will take too much water, will injure the plants, and may injure roots. Let the plants use most of the water you give them before applying more. They'll develop better roots if the soil becomes partly dry between irrigations.

Kinds of Garden Insects

There are two general groups of insects that will like your garden fully as well as you do. Some chew, eating holes in leaves and stems. Others suck the plant juices. The chewers
