

Torrance Man Dies in Fall At San Pedro

Gilecia Caluna, 57, of 550 E. Carson st., Torrance, died at a San Pedro hospital July 2 from injuries sustained in a fall at the French Sardine Packing Co. plant on Terminal Island. In falling Caluna struck the back of his head on the cement floor, according to police investigators. His body was identified by his widow and was sent to the Halverson Mortuary, San Pedro.

TEMPORARY RESTRAINING ORDER ISSUED

(Continued from Page 1-A) ing the work stoppage, slow-down, sit-down, walk-out or strike sessions, other retail units have been able to keep open their doors with inadequate and in some instances inexperienced staffs. Food stores have not been involved, being under separate contracts.

All employers, it was said, have been attempting to live up to the union's demands, but their hands have been tied, and the clerks have been reluctant to leave their jobs for meetings.

The temporary restraining order issued by Judge Still on the petition of Bernard E. Hill and the San Pedro Business Men's Association against Haskell

Tidwell, the union's business agent, and hundreds of Jane Does and John Does, intended to include every member of the union, ruled in effect:

Effect of Order

1. That the union be restrained from calling any meetings until further order of the court during normal and usual business hours.

2. That the union and members be restrained from interfering in any way with the employers' business.

3. That the union be restrained from coercing and compelling members to cease work and leave their places of business during business hours.

4. That the union be restrained from giving possible false or fraudulent advice to employees, or any advice without WLB consent.

5. That the union be restrained from coercing or compelling or attempting to compel any merchant to terminate his agreement with the union now in effect before the expiration of the contract.

Hearing on the temporary restraining order has been set for July 9, Monday, before Judge Still.

Hill's Statement

In a statement issued Tuesday afternoon as the clerks remained out of their jobs even though no union meeting was in progress, Hill, representing the business men's association, told the Torrance Herald:

"The employers and the union have a contract which has not yet expired. This contract was entered into voluntarily by the union and does not expire until a new one is entered into by order of the Regional War Labor Board, or as a result of negotiations between the union and the employers.

"The union has refused to negotiate with the employers in accordance with War Labor Board rulings and persists in the work stoppages.

"We believe that the actions of the union are in direct violation of their own international constitution.

"The regional board by unanimous action including the labor members thereof wired Haskell Tidwell to call off the work stoppage meetings. Mr. Tidwell wired the board that the union will continue to hold work stoppage meetings until the board gives them what they demand and such meetings are now continuing.

"Mr. Tidwell has made statements to his members that the employers can grant the demands if they want to. This is untrue. Any employer who grants these demands without War Labor Board approval and permission is subject to very grave and serious penalties under the Wage Stabilization Law.

"The employers have at all times and on numerous occasions invited Mr. Tidwell and the union to sit down with them and attempt to reach an agreement which they could jointly ask the board to approve. The last request was made last Saturday and was coupled with a condition that the work stoppages cease pending the negotiation. Mr. Tidwell refused to do this.

"The employers are now and will always be ready to sit down and negotiate with the union, if the union will abide by the law.

"We contend the National War Labor Board should order the regional board to study our demands on the basis that the wages are sub-standard," Tidwell said. "We agreed in January to wait a reasonable length of time for the WLB to act, but this is July and we think the time has run out."

The union will continue to hold meetings, he indicated, until the War Labor Board acts, or until merchants sign new contracts.

Business men say they cannot sign contracts without WLB approval and that they will insist that an arbitration clause be retained.

Board's Telegram

The War Labor Board telegram of June 29 sent to Tidwell read:

"The Tenth Regional War Labor Board has been advised of work stoppages involving members of your union employed in retail stores in San Pedro, Torrance and Wilmington.

"We remind you of labor's no-strike pledge and your obligation to settle all disputes in accordance with the orderly procedures established by the President and Congress. In accordance with board rules the dispute case between your union and San Pedro Business Men, Associated, Inc. No. 111-105-12 D 10 D 6-43 which is now before the Tenth Regional War Labor Board has today by unanimous action of the board been put at the bottom of the board's docket and no further action will be taken until we are advised that work stoppages have ceased. Bring this wire to the attention of your membership and advise what action has been taken."

"THOMAS FAIR NEBLETT, Chairman, "Tenth Regional War Labor Board."

In Torrance, J. C. Penney Co. was operating with a skeleton crew and J. J. Newberry Co. with help obtained from other stores outside the union's jurisdiction. Other stores were operated on a manager-customer basis, and some closed entirely due to the absence of the clerks.

Drug stores were hit in some instances. Local merchants expressed appreciation to the public for its tolerance and understanding of the inconveniences caused by limited and inexperienced sales forces, and explained that the store operators are powerless to remedy the regrettable situation until the War Labor Board and the union reconcile their differences.

Semi-Pro Ball Tournament Is Scheduled

Any club not a member of organized professional baseball is eligible to participate except any club, player or players under suspension from any baseball organization in the state of California. Any player who has played professional baseball since June 1, 1945, will be ruled ineligible. Tournament play will be governed by Official Baseball Rules as Year of Tournament Play, with exception of local ground rules and cases where official rules cannot apply to semi-pro baseball such as fines, and other cases.

All games will be played at night, and the tournament will be run off on schedule with a game each night from the first to the final night.

Provisions are being made to increase the seating capacity of Torrance Ball Park to handle crowds which are expected to reach well into four figures as the tournament progresses.

have known each other since the last war, in the Army Air Corps, in which Lewis now holds a reserve commission as major.

Colonel Williams made the seventh trans-Atlantic non-stop flight, in 1929, from New York to Rome, a distance of about 4500 miles, the longest non-stop flight which had been made at that time. His over-water flight on that trip of 3487 miles still is a United States record, never having been equaled by an American aviator. He was flying a Bellanca powered with a 220-horsepower Wright J-5 motor. For that flight, Pope Pius XI awarded him the "Medal of the Year," for the spiritual advancement resulting from the flight. He is the only American ever to receive that annual award. He also received from King Victor Emmanuel the Grand Master of the Order of the Crown, and from the Italian government the Gold Medal of the Minister of Aeronautics.

1942 Used Cars Removed From Ration Rules

Used 1942 passenger cars, rationed since March 6, 1943, will be removed from rationing on July 2, the OPA announced today. Price controls will remain in effect.

Main reason for the rationing of 1942 used cars—that they were generally the best automobiles in the country aside from the few new 1942's in stock and, therefore, should be restricted to essential users—no longer exists because most of these cars have been driven many thousands of miles and aren't always better cars than older models which have accounted for less mileage, OPA officials explained.
