CITY EMPLOYEES HERE AFFILIATED WITH NO NEWSPAPER—STROH

Municipal employees of Torrance have no affiliation with the weekly newspaper "County and City Employees' News," pointed out Chief of Police John H. Stroh yesterday as many reports reached police of merchants being approached to buy advertising space in the paper.

A check with the Better Business Bureau of Los Angeles showed that the paper is owned by two private individuals and had "... nothing to do with any labor union or city employees or county employees ... The only connection it has with city or county employees is in the name."
