Former Aviation Cadets Now May Be Reinstated

Wartime-qualified Aviation Cadets whose hopes for pilot training with the Air Force were ended by the curtailment of the Aviation Cadet Program in 1944-45 may be reinstated, M/Sgt. James R. Callissu, RS, said today.

Men in this special category, Sgt. Callissu said, may be reinstated merely by passing the required physical examination, if they are unmarried, between 20 and 26½ years old and have had two or more years of satisfactory college study.

Formerly qualified cadets interested in resuming pilot training should write direct to the Headquarters, United States Air Force, Attention: Aviation Cadet Section, Washington 25, D.C., for information and instructions.

Candidates for Aviation Cadet training must be between 20 and 26½ years old, unmarried, and have at least one-half of the credits leading to a degree at an accredited college or university, or be able to pass an examination measuring the equivalent, and be of excellent character, sound physique, and in good health.
