

CINNAMON, ORANGE ADD NEW INTEREST

Although doughnuts are always a favorite of adults and children alike, it is well sometimes to vary your favorite doughnut recipe. One example of how to do this and still rate high with all the members of the family is to try cinnamon-orange doughnuts.

- Cinnamon Orange Doughnuts
2 tablespoons lard
1/2 cup sugar
2 eggs, beaten
2 tablespoons grated orange rind
4 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup orange juice

Cream thoroughly the shortening and sugar. Add the well-beaten eggs and orange rind; mix well. Sift all dry ingredients and add to creamed mixture alternately with the orange juice. Chill the dough thoroughly, then roll to near one-half inch thickness and cut with doughnut cutter. Fry in deep hot lard at 350-360° F. until brown. (If you have no thermometer, you'll find the lard is about the right temperature for frying doughnuts when a cube of bread without crust takes one minute to brown.) Drain, then dip in mixture of cinnamon and sugar. An orange-cinnamon icing made by moistening powdered sugar with orange juice and adding a little cinnamon is another variation well worth trying. Have the icing of thin consistency so it will be as a glaze on the doughnuts.
