Sportsman Show Opens Tonight For 11-Day Run

With record throngs again expected, the third annual Southern California Sportsmen's and Vacation Show opens tonight for an 11-day run at Gilmore Stadium. Gates will be open daily from 1 to 11 p.m., permitting sufficient time for inspection of the thousands of interesting exhibits.

The exciting "Parade of Outdoor Champions" stage-and-tank program is scheduled at 3 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. daily. Another stellar array of talent has been lined up by General Manager Mel Morrison and Producer H. Werner Buck, giving fans a wide variety of athletic demonstrations.

Heading the scintillating cast is Babe Didrikson, Zubariav, British and American golf queen. Co-star is Howard Hill, colorful archery wizard. Orin Benson and his retrieving dogs return, as do Capt. H. W. Winston's performing seals. Margaret Hutton, Canadian swim champion, is a newcomer who will furnish aquatic surprises. Anders Haugen, veteran ski-jumping champion, and his young partner, Bobby Jackson, again will thrill fans with their daring jumps. Ben Hardesty, national bait casting king, displays his skill.

From the North Woods of Maine and Nova Scotia return the plaid-shirted, blue-jeaned guides. They'll stage their spectacular log-rolling, canoe-tipping, tub-racing, wood chopping and log-sawing contests among themselves—and dare anyone in the crowd to excel them. The group includes Eben and Watson Peck, Hector MacQuarrie, Malcolm Parker, Gerald Buckler and Del Soule.

"Emceeing" the entire production is Chief Needabbech, famed author, lecturer and historian on Indian lore and outdoor life. He wears a beautiful headdress costume which took squaws of his Penobscot tribe 2½ years to make by hand.

A quick survey of exhibits lists autos, boats, trailers, bicycles, motorcycles, foods, apparel, fods, reels, guns, beach accessories, airplanes, travel bureaus, cameras, saddlery, and many more. Admission is 50 cents for children; $1 for adults, tax inc.

Amateur Fighters Feature CYO Card At Holly. Legion

Fight fans attending the second CYO Boxing Tournament at the Hollywood Legion Stadium tonight and Saturday night will be achieving a dual purpose.

They will enjoy a big money's worth in boxing thrills, action and entertainment, and at the same time they will help fight juvenile delinquency.

Proceeds from the three-night tourney, which will feature the cream of Southland amateur boxers, will go to provide sorely needed recreation facilities for the Catholic Youth Organization, a non-sectarian agency benefiting thousands of young people of all colors, races and creeds.

Some 80 boys in both novice and open divisions are expected to start Wednesday night. Semifinals will be held Thursday and finals Saturday. Many screen notables will attend the finals to present awards to the 16 winners, including Joe Kirkwood, Jr., Cathy Downs, Esther Williams, Ben Gage, Kathryn Grayson, Johnny Johnston, Groucho Marx, Walter O'Keefe, Benay Venuta, Dane Clark and Bob Crosby.

Officials for the tournament were announced as Mushy Callahan, Reggie Gilmore, Frank Holborow, Frankie Van, Benny Whitmore, John Indrisano, Bill Kershner, Charlie Randolph, Abe Roth, Jack McDonald, Joe Stone, Dynamite Jackson and Jimmy Wallace.

Trout Streams Get Plantings

The Division of Fish and Game trout planting crews under supervision of D. A. Clanton, Assistant Superintendent of Hatcheries, are busy stocking lakes and streams of Southern California, according to the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Arrowhead, Big Bear, Gregory, Arrowbear, Green Valley, and Hemet Lakes and Little Rock Reservoir have all received heavy plantings of trout. All streams that have sufficient water to last the first two months of the season will receive trout plantings in April. If the streams hold up, they will receive additional fish after the opening. The Hot Creek Hatchery has 600,000 trout ready for planting before the season opens. All lakes and streams in the Sierra have sufficient water and will be stocked as usual.

Half of Beavers Trapped During First Season

The pelts of nearly half of the estimated 2,000 beaver which exist in the special Delta trapping area have been turned in to Division of Fish and Game inspectors since the opening of the three-month season December 1.

The first open trapping season since 1910 was declared in the area bounded by the cities of Vallejo, Sacramento and Tracy when the over-expanded beaver population caused serious agricultural losses. Attempts by Division employees to reduce the predators by live-trapping and transfer proved economically impossible because of the complex nature of the waterway habitat.

A total of 953 pelts have been checked to date, with the final tally expected to reach 1,000. 175 of the 215 pelts inspected in February brought commercial trappers a total of $3,847.50 when sold to wholesale fur manufacturers. At an average of $21.98 per pelt, the February price was $1.26 more than the January sales price.

MAN REPORTS 'BIG' WEEKEND THEFT TO TORRANCE POLICE

Police reports for the week showed some big stealing was going on.

For instance, Frank Marveux, 2314 233rd street, reported to the Torrance police that a corrugated iron storage tank measuring 7 by 5½ feet with a 600-gallon capacity, was stolen from the above location some time Saturday.

Valued at $75 the tank was believed stolen by four men using an automobile and a trailer to make off with the loot.

DON'T OVERSHOOT CURVES

Don't overshoot the curves. It is better to enter them at a safe speed and accelerate while rounding them than to enter at an unsafe speed and have to brake to avoid catastrophe.
