

GIRL SCOUT DAY CAMP CONCLUSION IS TOLD

Girl Scouts of this area concluded their annual Day Camp with a supper for their parents, a show and an "overnite." Since this was the first affair of this sort that your reporter had ever seen all that can be said is that both the girls and their parents had a grand time.

The girls and their parents ate by units under the central pergola in the park, and after dinner was cleared away, the show started. The first act was a "gay nineties mellerdrummer," called "A Persecuted Maiden." Judging by the laughs this number drew, it was a great success. The second act was a group of two songs, "Three Jolly Fishermen" and the "Pussywillow."

The next number was a play in pantomime with a narrator and its puns were amazing and amusing. When the fourth group came on, they re-enacted "The History of Girl Scouting" in pantomime.

The number called "A Comic Cook-out," brought shouts of laughter from girls and leaders as they saw all rules of good camping broken "in the spirit of play."

A sailor with mercenary girl friends was the song theme.

Everyone felt sorry for the poor sailor whom all girls spurned until they found he was wealthy. "Weaving the Wadmill," a Swedish folk song, telling the story of weaving in song and dance closed the clever program.

After the program, Mrs. Ruth Smith introduced the unit leaders and the co-directors Mrs. Carol Humphreys. Parents left after telling the girls "to behave" and "hurry to bed" and then the girls and leaders had their camp fire with cocoa and cookies.

And so to bed! Down-filled sleeping bags and Klondike beds (a more humble substitute) were soon filled with tired sleeping girls. Next morning breakfast was served and after singing several Scout songs, the girls broke camp.

Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Humphreys extend their thanks to the following leaders who made this event a success: Mrs. Carmen Kastrup, Mrs. Jackie Hageman, Mrs. Alice St. Martin, Mrs. May Cobb, Mrs. Mathilda Lopez, Mrs. Gladys Pietschke, Mrs. Katherine Lane, Mrs. Toby Witrock, Mrs. Jean Griffiths and Mrs. Quinliven.

Also deserving of thanks are Mrs. J. W. Loughridge, who fixed the stage lights for the play; Frank Cook and E. A. Treloar, who, during the entire month, changed watering schedules to meet the needs of the camp. Chief of Police John Stroh provided police protection during the night, and both camp personnel and parents are grateful to him and his department.

We especially liked the way camp closed. "Goodbye, Scouts, see you next summer."
