Haggott Renamed Head of West Basin, Seeks State Assistance

Ben Haggott, developer of the Seaside Ranchos residential area, was unanimously reelected president of the West Basin Water Association board of directors last week, a position he has held since 1948.

The West Basin president has been credited with much of the progress made in solving the complex and serious problems afflicting the ground water supply of the Basin.

Recently, Haggott has been active in support of a plan to combine Assembly Bill 784 and Assembly Bill 2712. The first is to be an appropriation to halt sea water intrusion in the West Basin. The second, known as the Dickey Bill, would provide $1 million from general funds to the State Water Pollution Control Board for allocation in the form of loans and grants to aid in preventing salt water intrusion and for sealing abandoned wells.

PLUGS AMENDMENT

The association president has had several conferences with the subcommittee of the Ways and Means committee on a proposed amendment which would up the original $1 million appropriation to $1,150,000 and draw on the Postwar Unemployment and Construction Fund instead of the General Fund. Of this, $750,000 would be allocable to West Basin without matching funds.

The proposed amendment would also call for funds to be appropriated to the State Water Resources Board rather than to the State Water Pollution Control Board. Appropriation would be made from interest accumulated in Chapter 20 funds.

MARBLE CITADEL

The new supreme court building in Washington is said to contain more marble than is to be found in any other government building here.

Japan Camp Just Like Country Club--Almost

By CAPT. W. D. McGLASSON

Asst. Public Information Officer, 40th Infantry Division YAMOTO, Japan.—Recreational facilities pose no problem for Torrance men serving with the 40th Infantry Division in Japan.

Bowling alleys, tennis courts, a newly-redecorated service club, snack bars and gift shops, a hobby shop for "putters," stage shows, . . . these are only a few of the off-duty diversions available to men of the 878th Engineer Combat Battalion at Camp Matsushima.

"I only wish Camp Cooke had been this nice and this attractive," said Pfc. Lee Bailey, 1535 West 214th street, former employee of the General Petroleum refinery. "As long as we have to serve a way from home, I'm glad we can have the comfort we have here."

Located near the beach, the camp is distinguished by comfortable and attractive barracks, wide expanses of green lawns, well-kept shrubbery and a compactness that provides easy access to all clubs, movies or off-duty facilities.

Taking much of the individual soldier's spare time during these first two months in Japan, of course, has been sightseeing and shopping for gifts for Mom and Dad or "the missus." Everyone wants to send a little of the Orient home to give their families a sort of "tourist by proxy" view of what their soldier is seeing and experiencing.

"And there are plenty of interesting things to see around here," said an expert on the subject, M/Sgt. Don C. Townsend. Townsend was stationed in nearby Sendai shortly after World War II, serving as a military policeman. He lives at 2220 Gramercy avenue.

"Ancient pagodas and temples, the Thousand Island near Matsushima, which is a well-known Japanese summer resort, and even the old-fashioned ways of the farmers around here, are all strange and new to most of the men in the battalion."

Other Torrance men had their own ideas on Japan:

Sgt. Charles G. Turner, 1749 Arlington avenue, former employee of the American Radiator and Standard Sanitary Corporation: "It has all been very interesting to me but there is hardly any need in saying . . . give me Torrance anytime!"

Sgt. Thomas Walters, 20809 Hawthorne boulevard, whose parents Mr. and Mrs. Cleo E. Walters are in the grocery business in West Torrance: "Los Angeles county would starve to death in a week if they had to depend on Japanese-style transportation. Walking seems to be the chief means of getting from place to place, with bicycle, rickshaws and two-wheeled carts running a close second. One interesting contraption is a very heavy three-wheeled cargo motorcycle with a truck body. They are used for hauling everything under the sun."

M/Sgt. Glenn A. Price, 2111 Andree avenue, former Torrance fireman: "This is one of the nicest Army camps I've seen. Too bad it isn't located in Torrance ball park."

M/Sgt. James Wilkes, 1742-A Cabrillo avenue: "The Japanese people have certainly been friendly and cooperative. It's hard to get used to some of their peculiar customs, but they probably think we're rather weird at times too."

Pfc. Deport J. Skidmore, 1308 Crenshaw boulevard, former Walteria fireman: "These roads would certainly look sick alongside Highway 101. I rode 30 miles to Sendai in a Jeep last week and now I'm looking for a new sacroiliac."

Drama Workshop To Help Develop Personality

Open to both children and adults is a new, free drama workshop sponsored by the Adult Education program to be held each Tuesday evening from 7 to 10, in the Torrance High School Auditorium starting Tuesday evening, June 12.

This workshop will emphasize speech, personality, and drama. It is designed to help people gain poise personality and charm.

thatAdultly inadeph SH Ha It is also intended to help people speak correctly and to develop their leadership and social effectiveness.

On the technical side, children and adults will work together in groups to produce one and three-act plays.

According to Dan Desmond, instructor of the course, the purpose is threefold. It will make better speakers, better personalities, and better actors.

"The drama workshop is designed for people with little or no experience. Its overall course is designed for everybody and is intended to help each person get what he himself wants most. We plan, said Desmond, to find out just what our students want most. If it is poise and personality and public speaking, then we will go into that—and thoroughly. If they want to know about characterization and acting and stage presence and writing and putting on plays, we will go into that. Each person then, will design the course that will be given."

All children and adults should go directly to the Auditorium on Tuesday night June 12 at 7 o'clock to register. At that time they will have an opportunity to speak to Desmond and to learn how the course can help them in their individual needs. Enrollees need not be residents of Torrance to take advantage of the course.

Navy Physical Standards Eased

Physical requirements for enlistment in the Navy have been eased and men who were not physically acceptable previously may now enlist, according to Chief Kronberger, of the Garona recruiting station. The main requirements affected by the new ruling are in eyesight, hearing, and dental standards.

Will Graduate

For 12 years you prepared for this day. You successfully passed the preparatory phase, now you are entering a new phase in which you will apply all you have learned. The correct application of those principles will redound to your individual power, rank, and wealth.

In our country there are no barriers to fortune, fame, honor or independence. There are no secret formulas. Merit, imagination, thrift, industry, and wholehearted application are the factors to success and each of you has access to all of them. Each and all of you will go as high on the economic ladder as you are willing to climb.

You will face new situations that are exciting, you will accept responsibilities that will bring remuneration equal to your ability. Your names can be written on the walls of fame, or inscribed on the halls of great wealth—if you apply yourself with the same diligence you did throughout the past 12 years.

There is a freeway ahead. Competition is keen but the rewards are great. Go ahead! Stay ahead! Get there!

Both Elizabeth and Arthur have many friends abroad, and plan to take with them certain foods and commodities which are not obtainable there. Bon voyage!

The first in a series of home nursing classes under the auspices of the Civil Defense program in Torrance was completed last week. Our very able instructor, Mrs. Finch, has done a most commendable job in teaching us the care of the sick.

Those interested in future classes may give their names to Mrs. W. G. Jerrens, FR. 2-5597, who will contact them at the proper time.

The sincere sympathies of Seaside are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Roger Farnham of Reese road, whose little daughter Rene passed on recently.

Small world . . . Sacramento-bound City Attorney Jim Hall discovered to his delight that his United Airlines pilot was none other than neighbor Jack Pomeroy.

The Halls, together with the Ross Dorsetts, attended a birthday dinner party in honor of Auten Bush, City Prosecutor of Hermosa Beach.

Back to the hills! Helen and Duke Wanke, formerly of Linda drive, have moved to a delightful new home in the Palos Verdes Hills. Their house commands a beautiful view of the California coastline, and that epitome—TWO bathrooms!
