Four Sites Under Advisement; Board Seeks Property Titles

The acquisition of four building sites for future Torrance schools was taken under advisement by the Board of Education Tuesday evening.

Located throughout the city school district, three of the parcels would be used for elementary schools and one for a high school in the North Waltham area.

Property owner Henry Nielson, 3505 West 108th street, spoke before board members protesting the possible condemnation of his farm land at 168th street, near Yukon, in North Torrance.

Nielson said that he had received offers of $4500 per acre for his nine-acre site, and that he could not take less. He maintains a celery and cauliflower farm there and lives at the location.

The board has not paid a price exceeding some $2000 per acre for land as yet.

Further negotiations will continue, and no price was quoted to Nielson by the board for

Grand Opening Sales Continue At Western Auto

Continuing their gigantic grand opening sale this week is the newly located Western Auto Store at 1269 Sartori avenue, according to Hugh Allen, manager of the Torrance store.

"Our opening here last weekend was one of the finest I've ever seen anywhere," Allen beamed this week.

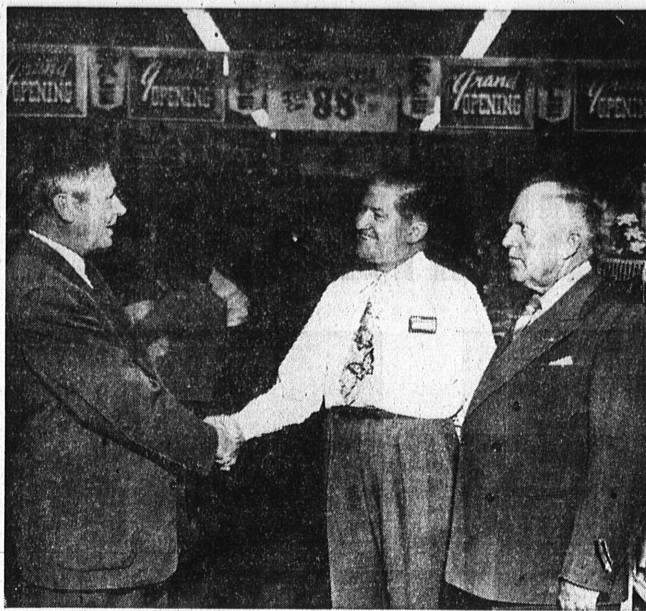

The new appliance and accessories store was opened to the public last Thursday with all the trappings which make such an opening a thing to remember. Ladies were given orchids, kids got Indian headresses, and everybody was treated like visiting royalty.

"Of course, we treat our customers that way the year around," Allen assured his listeners.

The big sale celebrating the opening will continue through this week, according to the store's manager.

FREE CONCERT SLATED

Les Taylor will conduct the 28-piece Los Angeles Concert Band and Lloyd Stone will be tenor soloist at a free Sunday afternoon concert at Ft. Fernin Park beginning at 2 o'clock.

Lions Set Date For Brooms Sale

Twenty-seven children of needy parents received much-needed eye glasses through the efforts of the Torrance Lions Club during the past year, according to Paul Diamond, president of the service club.

Diamond made the report in announcing the annual Lions-sponsored "Brooms for the Blind" sale, which will be held this year on October 19.

Inaugurated last year, the sale then netted nearly $300 for the club, which has been used in providing optical care for Torrance area children.

"The project of Lions clubs everywhere is to assist the blind," Diamond said. He pointed out that the problems of the blind are very limited here, so the Torrance club uses its funds to assist in providing optical care for the needy.

Sale of the brooms, which are made by the blind, is the main source of such income, he said. Each case of a child requiring help has been referred to the
