Trojan Grid Star Visits Seaside

If some of the present students at Seaside Elementary grow up to be All-Americans on the gridiron, it will be due largely to the fact that they received some coaching from one of the nation's top college football players last week.

On hand to give the boys some sound advice on sports-manship and a few tips on the best method of blocking an opponent on the gridiron was Frank Gifford, outstanding SC Trojan halfback and potential

All-American.

Gifford, appearing at the school at the invitation of Miss Jean McCarthy, one of the teachers, told the excited crowd of youngsters that the development of a sense of good sports-manship and a need for team cooperation were the prime benefits of football whether played on a sandlot or before 100,000 persons in a huge stadium.

Following a demonstration of blocking techniques in which Larry Lippincott and Stan Wilson, both eighth graders, received first-hand instructions from the expert, Gifford and the students went to the school's new football field and watched as the star demonstrated the art of kicking.
