"The Questers" of Torrance Methodist Church gathered in El Retiro Park clubhouse recently for an evening of square dancing.

Instruction was given by H. A. Hanlon, Sunday school teacher, and a brief business meeting was conducted by M. R. Ransom. Plans were made for a mountain trip in April.

Refreshments were served by the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hiebert. The next social meeting of the group has been set for March 28 at El Retiro Park.

FASHION PREVIEW

Male Commentator Adds Hilarity to Vecinas Show

By MARJIE MEYER

Something new was added to the usual pattern of a fashion show last week, this time the opinion of the male of the species. Las Vecinas sponsored a gala "Fashion Preview" Thursday in Palos Verdes Country Club, and the commentator was none other than South Bay's movie star-estate man Frank Jenks.

Jenks used a style all his own in describing the latest sports wear from Mademoiselle Shops array. While he followed a script, for the most part, his stumblings over such words as "faile" and "sergee," as well as his extemporaneous masculine comments delighted the spectators.

Models were all members of Las Vecinas and included Mmes. William A. Schmitz, Peter L. Jurisch, James M. Hall, Eugene L. Byrd Jr., William A. Manfress, Donald F. Stewart, Morrison Hornbeck and Robert A. Hoag.

Proceeds from the event, attended by over 175 women from Torrance, Redondo and other towns in the South Bay are slated for the club's youth fund.

Suits and dresses in the collection pointed up the season's fashionable silhouette—nipped in waist and accented hip. Notable in the clothes were dresses designed for patio wear, and a variety of new fabrics which are making headlines this year.

Poodle cloth is still news for coats—it was shown in white and pastels for spring. Other coat fabrics in the spotlight were nubby boucle, suede cloth and plaid woolsens.

Color is important in all fabrics. This year the shades have received such inviting names as Botticelli pink, shrimp red and cotton blue—each a luscious shade of a familiar favorite. Sport clothes have come into their own—bathing suits in the collection were designed for swimming as well as sun-bathing and utilized new fabrics in addition to the perennial nylon. Beach coats of terry cloth were fashioned much like street coats—there was a duster with tritone trim, a ballerina coat penching just to the bottom of the bathing suit and a jacket of printed terry cloth.
