By Jack Treskes

I just learned that the inventor of the Safety pin, a fellow by the name of Walter Hunt, sold the idea, lock, stock and barrel, for a paltry $400;

Whoever bought the idea sure got a lot for his money . . . like the customers over here at TRESKES — except that we don't sell pins here.

We sell men's wear for men who want not just clothes, but intelligent, expert advice as to just what clothes most becomes their particular color and build. Come try the suit on you should have been wearing years ago at TRESKES MEN'S WEAR, 1319 El Prado. (Between Newberrys and McCown Drug).

School Library Does Landoffice Business Daily

Business at the Torrance Unified School District's library is good, according to Librarian Trudy Burbage.

Total book circulation for the school year 1951-52 has doubled.

Last year, 85,850 books were circulated as compared with 34,008 for the previous year.

Distributed were 16,615 textbooks, 50,000 trade books and 150 state manuals.

Audio-visual education, an important aid to the classroom teacher, utilized 2418 films during the school year.

Los Angeles County also contributed to the visual education in supplying the schools with 150 models for instruction.

Tape recorders, a recent addition to the educational program, were used on, 55 different occasions.

Finally, 2500 still pictures created scenes of learning for the pupils.

Reason for this increase in business, Miss Burbage says, is credited to the daily, book delivery, which makes it possible for the books to be where they are needed, when they are needed.

Urias told Judge Willett that they had come to Torrance because they had been invited to "come down and make friends."
