Mild Protests Lodged Tuesday On City Budget

Only mild protests were evident Tuesday evening as the City Council opened the first hearings on the proposed 1952-53 budget.

A request that the Chamber of Commerce appropriation from the 1952-53 budget be upped to $7500 from the proposed $5000 was submitted to the council by Executive Secretary Dale Isenberg.

Adding his voice to a plea made by Chamber President Robert I. Plomert Jr., Isenberg said that Torrance had "experienced exceptional and unprecedented growth in residential areas, but had lagged in industrial development."

He said the $7500 requested would put the city's advertising and promotion allocations nearer that of neighboring cities and communities, and would allow the city to advertise nationally in an effort to bring industries here.

Tagged Inadequate

Plomert called the $5000 appropriation 'entirely inadequate to meet the demands" in a competitive market.

"I would like to have Torrance at least meet neighboring cities in promoting this area as the 'white spot' of Los Angeles County," he said.

The council took the requests under advisement.

Protest Filed

A protest on the proposed budget was filed by the Budget Study Committee of the Torrance Unified Taxpayers, Inc.

"We do not find that a tax increase is justified," the written protest stated. The letter of protest was signed by A. D. Gianni, Al Isen, J. A. Beasley and F. S. Selover.

Adding his voice to protest the increased tax rate was O. Z. Drale, who said he wanted to remind the council that the "common people can not stand the load of taxes now heaped upon them."

He cited his belief that the hundreds of acres of agricultural land being converted to residential areas should bring increased tax receipts to the city.

Increase Cited

"The population has increased 110 per cent, according to you gentlemen, and I believe the tax receipts should have increased by the same ratio," he said. He added that newcomers should be considered as easing the tax burden, not adding to it.

The first hearing on the budget was closed until July 22, at which time the council will again open hearings on the proposed 1952-53 budget.
