Torrance Teachers Join Army of Tourists in European 'Invasion'

A large-scale American invasion of Europe will take place this summer when an army of tourists from the states make their annual pilgrimage to the continent; and quite a large chunk of this striking force will be made up of U. S. teachers—including four from Torrance. This small squad of local adventurers includes Desmond Wedberg instructor at Torrance High School, and his wife; Webb Smith, superintendent of child welfare and attendance for the Board of Education, and his wife; and Mrs. Janice Hampson, teacher at Torrance Elementary, and her husband, a teacher at Narbonne High School. Of the three couples, only the Smiths have been to Europe before. They spent a brief period in Switzerland in 1948, skiing. For all three couples, this summer's jaunt will be the realization of a long-cherished dream. Teachers' salaries being what they are, the Wedbergs, Smiths and Hampsons' plans to go to Europe are far from spur of the moment. In fact, all three couples have been planning and saving for about three years for their trips. The Wedbergs plan to spend about three months on the continent and the yearly music, drama and art festivals will determine their itinerary. They will go to Amsterdam for the Holland Music and Art Festival, and will also attend the Venice Film Festival, the Salzburg Music Festival and the famous Edinburgh Festival in Scotland. Wedberg will take color films of the proceedings at all of these festivals, which he has made arrangements to put on the market to be sold to colleges and universities here. He will make a series of three sets of film strips, not movies, which will tell of the 20th Century European theatre of today. Upon his return to the States, Wedberg plans to attend USC, where he will continue work on his doctorate in education. The Smiths will fly directly to Paris via New York, and will buy a small car there, in which they will tour Europe. They will visit friends and relatives in Paris and England, and plan to visit Spain, Italy, Switzerland, Austria, Germany, and the Scandinavian countries on their tour. In Paris the Smiths will stay for two weeks with Mr. Smith's cousin, Harvey Hudson, who works for the Associated Press there. Hudson's wife is an executive with the United Nations. And the Hampsons The Hampsons have chosen bicycles as their modus operandi while on the continent. They plan to fly over, purchase bicycles, and tour Holland, Austria, Belgium, France, Denmark and other countries. Mrs. Hampson teaches the third grade at Torrance Elementary School.

Goodyear Plans New Store Here

Establishment of a new Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. retail store on the southeast corner of Engracia Ave. and Torrance Blvd. was revealed in a request to the Planning Commission here Wednesday evening for approval of the store at the location. The company had previously received permission to establish an outlet on the northwest corner but did not go ahead with plans. Star Furniture has since acquired the site and has constructed a new store there. Secretary Earle Lloyd informed the planners that the site proposed for the new Goodyear store was now zoned for C-1 (retail commercial) and that the site could be used for the purpose proposed by the company. No indication was given about when the store might be established.

Reflections

By J. HUGH SHERREFF, JR.

Jim Merdith, a successful young business man, showed me a new type recording machine. "Make speeches," I asked facetiously. "In a way, yes, he answered seriously. I jerked my head around, met his eyes; he was in dead earnest. "To whom?" "Myself, mostly. Tried talking problems over with my wife; she worried. My banker wants to solve things, in his way. Friends insist upon giving me snap-judgment advice. When I voice my problems, errors in judgment become obvious; I talk to this machine, play it back, correct errors, make my decision, and 99 times in a 100 it's correct." "Many times a good listener is a good doctor." "True," he agreed. "One of my best men slumped lower and lower, rejects multiplied. I suspected he was worried, called him in; took me 15 minutes to get him to talk. When he did troubles spilled all over. I kept quiet. Thirty minutes later he finished, smiled and said: "Thanks Jim, I feel relieved, better. I'm all right now." And he was. "Troubles are leaden weights, until they're steamed then they disappear like steam in wind. Listen! That's all, just listen."
