

Good Sense Important To Good Driving

Plain old "horse sense" is not enough these days. Traffic being what it is, you also need "horse power" or automobile sense—and just good judgment, if you please. Old timers can remember when the country doctor, coming home at dawn after a sleepless night of calls, could fall asleep at the wheel—and his faithful old nag would bring him safely home. That was horse sense.

But your automobile, miraculously as this is these modern days, just won't do that kind of a job. That's why you have to use your good judgment—and stay alert while driving.

Horses seldom got into trouble, unless they panicked and ran away. But insurance people say that about two tenths of one per cent of today's accidents, killing 60 and injuring about 3,000 people, are caused by automobiles running away. And even those were caused by bad driver judgment.

Most accidents, in some degree, are caused by lapses of a driver's common "horse-power" sense—exceeding safe speed limits, driving on the wrong side, passing on the wrong side, or on a hill or curve, and similar chicanery.

But there's one thing that hasn't changed much. A horse used to do some of the work of taking care of himself—grazing and exercising, for example—calling for outside repairs only when in need of the blacksmith or the veterinarian. A car will do some of that work, too—recharging its own battery as it operates, keeping itself lubricated with oil pump, and so on.

But when it needs outside help—that's the time to make sure you take it to the man who handles your make of car, the man who knows it best.

It's up to your horsepower sense to make sure your car gets the kind of care that will keep it in safe operating condition.

Walteria Kids Given Treat At Yule Party

By BETTY MITCHELL

DA 6-4498—The youngsters in our community enjoyed a treat last Friday night at the Walteria Business Men's Club Christmas party when over 600 of them lined up to receive the well-filled red stockings. I say the kiddies enjoyed the party, but I noticed that the adults present got a lot of laughs too. It's quite a thing to see an auditorium about three times the size to accommodate the crowd, since mummies and daddies had to stay outside and peek through the windows as the children filled the auditorium to overflowing all by themselves. Hats off to this club which works so hard each year to bring the children of this community a bigger and better Christmas party.

Getting away from the Christmas theme for a moment, and looking to events coming up, we find that the VFW of Lomita is going to have a New Year's Eve dance on Dec. 31. (When does it supposed to be quite a shindig. The dance will start at 9 p.m. and the price is $2 for each ticket. The tickets are available at the home of Dale Broderson, 3242 Winlock Dr., or you may have them delivered by calling DA 6-6939.
