Giant Helicopter Flown

General Lemuel C. Sheppard Jr., commandant of the Marine Corps, recently inspected the country's new helicopter, a giant, verticalfying craft, which has been ordered in quantity by the Marine Corps. The new helicopter is a since they usually are used of aircraft flying horizontally, it is fast for the United Aircraft Corpbiation.

Known as the KH-2S, the new helicopter is a twin-engined aircraft which is the first of its type to have a retractable landing gear. Its nose opens like that of a flying boxear and it can carry several vehicles, or as many as 26 fully loaded soldiers.

In the recent demonstration viewed by General Sheppard, the XH-2S Sikorsky carried three jeeps aloft at a rapid pace and ascended almost vertically. It is thought that the new helicopter can rise vertically from the ground with almost 5,000 pounds of freight in its fuselage. One of the best features of the new helicopter and ill eity postoffices having flat roofs, to be used by the helicopters as anding fields.

New Light Shed on Hitler

The official history of World War II, from the British viewpoint, is now being released volume by volume in Britain, as the editions are completed and come off the press. The second volume, covering the war in France in 1940, has just been released.

The most interesting official viewpoint in that volume is the expressed opinion that it was several famous Nazi Generals, and not Adolph Hitler, as the Generals claimed, who prevented the German Army from completely smashing the British Army at Dunkirk in the agonizing days of June, 1940.

Some 400,000 British soldiers escaped from a German trap and encirclement in those crucial days and the world wondered why the victorious Nazi Army did not set upon those fleeing troops with a vengeance. After the war the Nazi Generals blamed orders from the Fuhrer's headquarters for the German failure to attack in strength.

The German dictator was then dead and the German Generals' version was generally accepted. Now, however, the official military history, which reflects much research, says it was the Generals, who failed to grasp the situwas the Generals, who failed to grasp the situation and not Hitler. In face, the book just released says Hitler's intuition was often right and the Generals were often wrong throughout World War II.

It is a known fact that Hitler, in contrast to most of his advisers, came to the conclusion shortly before the Ailled invasion shortly before the Ailled invasion of France in 1944, that the Allies would land in Normandy. The Allies landed there on June 6th, 1944. It is a case of giving the devil his due, and the official histories show that Der Fuhrer was not the military clown a lot of people have assumed he was, as least not until the closing days of the war when his physical condition was so heavily affected by

President Sees Sound Economy

In Washington the reserves are being readied and every phase of the current battle is being carefully watched for clues. It is almost like 1944 all over again, with President Elsenhower being in command this time instead of General Dwight D. Elsenhower.

Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The battle is a different orie. This is the battle against an economic disaster. The best brains in the Administration keep telling the President and other Republicans that it can't happen. They say the dip in the economy of late is just a natural result of the conversion to a peacetime economy.

The President agrees, but it is hard to keep Republicans from remembering 1929, 1930 and 1931 and there is just enough doubt in the far reaches of their minds to make everyone a bit nervous, or sensitive to every economic trend.

Naturally, Democratic politicians are pouring fuel on the fire, in an effort to convince John Q. Public that the Republican Administration is once again leading the country down the road to economic ruin. We are on our way down the silde to a depression, Democrats are saying, and they're scaring some people to death. Meanwhile the President has ordered every precaution made, and he is even ready to launch a public works program that might dwarf those, sponsored by the Democrats in the thirties. This is just in case economy experts in the Executive Department are wrong.

Actually, the President thinks the business outlook is good, not bad. The key period ahead seeins to be the spring months. There is a difference of opinion as to when business will start to plek up again but the Administration's economists definitely look for a pick-up.

Some talk is heard about May 15. Others say that by June the layoffs will be over and sales will begin to rise. The Administration knows that as many as 3,500,000 people may become unemployed in the meantime. The figure will be allowed to go that high—or almost—before drastic action

Rastovorov knew the top secrets too, because he was the top man in a thirty-two man spy ring the Russians had going in Japan.

CAPITAL NOTES

WAGE DIFFERENTIAL

WAGE DIFFERENTIAL
Southern textile wages average thirteen cents an hour below the pay in Northern mills, despite wage cuts in the declining New England industry, according to a Labor Department survey. This differential accounts in part, for the rapiddy growing shift to such mills to southern areas, it is said.

tested and found to be feastible.

MOTOR VEHICLE TOLL

The motor vehicle was the nation's No. 1 killer again in 1983, as in the last several years, with 88,300 deaths reported as a result of traffic accidents. This was the third largest such toll in history and only about 1700 below the all-time high of 39,969 in 1941.

POST OFFICE FIRINGS

Postmaster General Summer-field recently told Congress that 166 postal employees have been discharged in the past year as "security risks" with "many hundreds" still under in-vestigation. The postal service employs about 500,000 persons.

DIVIDEND PAYMENTS
Corporations that publicly report their dividend payments paid out $8,546,000,000 in 1953—two and a half per cent more than in 1952, according to the Commerce Department, Commerce Department.

SURPLUS CORN

The Agriculture Department recently put 185,000,000 bushels of its surplus old-rop corn on the market at a slight reduction in price, in a move to get rid of it before it deteriorates. The corn offered included 180,000,000 bushels of grain from the 1948 crop and 25,000,000 bushels from the 1949 crop. The Department holds an additional 20,000,000,000 off after corn crop and an additional amount from the 1983 crop, which as been stored under pride support loans.

POSTAL RATE INCREASE
The House Postoffice and Civin Service Committee approved, by a vote of 13 to 7, a proposal to raise postal rates by $264,000,000 a year. A bout $159,000,000 of this total would be paid by those malling letters and other first-class matter. Under the bill, first-class letters mailed out of town would cost four cents instead of the present three cents,

WHY COFFEE PRICES

WHY COFFEF PRICES ARE UP
This is an election year and politicos on both sides of the political eartwheel are alert, to any-public-elamor for anything under the sun. At the moment it's the high price of coffee.
Already the President has mentioned twice in his press conferences that something ought to be done about the high price of coffee. The Senare Agricultural Committee unanimously approved a bill to put the New York Coffee Exchange under Federal regulation. The theory behind this legislation is that Federal supervision would prevent coffee manipula-der Federal regulation. The theory behind this legislation is that Federal supervision would prevent coffee manipulations in this country. Also the Federal Trade Commission has started an investigation of the "coffee market" which will take months and probably cost at least $50,000, just to find out why coffee is high, This reporter can offer several clues why coffee is high, for free.

Is Monopoly the Cause?
Any producer of anything is out to make a reasonable profit for his investment and all the hazards involved. There are gougers in any business, but they don't last long. Sooner or later the public catches on and they're out in the cold. The coffee market is controlled by investors... so are bananas and oranges and wheat and they're out in the cold. The coffee market is controlled by investors... so are bananas and oranges and wheat and nylon thread. They all have been accused of "monopoly" at some time or other. It just didn't, stick, Monopolles used to creep into our economy, but present laws are stiff and the public will not stand for it. The present coffee rise may be influenced by some gree dy South Americans, but other reasons seem to influence it a good deal more.
