Brainwashing Defined

Dr. Joost A. M. Meerloo, presently a United States citizen but formerly a member of the Dutch underground, recently testified at the hearing of Col. Frank H. Schwable, a muchdecorated Marine hero. The case involves a geordated maines held ine case movies a signed confession on germ warfare. Dr. Meerloo survived the tortures of Nazi interrogators in the World War II period and told the Schwable hearing the Russians have cted Nazi techniques, and are even better at this game than were the Hitlerites at this game than were the Hitlerites. Meerloo says Russian interrogators have borrowed from the Russian scientist Pavlov his methods and results with dogs. Pavlov taught dogs to do such things as water at the mouth at the sound of a bell, and so forth. In other words, is was a conditioned reflex system. Mecto says Russian interrogators today actually set out to murder the brain, and that no man alive can withstand such brain wash ing. He said such tactics, combined with ill-treatment, a lack of food and clothing, and rigid physical punishment could force a pris-oner to do almost anything his captors wished. He added that the only escape from the brain washing system was death.

He added that the only escape from the brain-washing system was death. Perhaps his testimony, in this connection, leds some light on what happened to several fousand Americans who have never been ac-counted for. It shows clearly what the eivilized people of the world are up against in combat-ting Communism. The United States and other decent governments of the world should make the clear in an international declaration that destruction of prisoners' brains through ruth-less and inhumane treatment is a war erime, punishable by international courts. The orimes against humanity are more re-tifue times against humanity are more re-tifue to an account with such criminals in all coun-tries, clear to all the world. 1 the cases thus far tested. The most promising thing about the pills is that used together they produce no harmful effects, whereas used separately some produce undesirable effects. The inconvenient thing about the treatment is that patients must take about twenty-four pills a day for at least six months, after which they must take fewer-pills for another six months. This is the only unpleasant part of the new treatment, which may represent a significant milestone in the treatment of stomach ulcers.
