

THE SQUIRREL CAGE

BY RED BUNDY

TRAVELER'S AID—Wrong Way Corrigan has nothing on Herald Society Editor Agnes Bolter and Terry Lowry when it comes to starting out for one place and ending up in another. After attending a performance of "Mr. Roberts" in Hollywood Friday evening, the ladies headed back for Torrance and got mixed up in a bunch of crazy streets which kept leading back to the same place. After winding around some more, they came across a familiar street—Vermont Ave. Turning onto Vermont they allegedly exclaimed in unison: "Well, we can't go wrong now." But they did. They wound up at the bird sanctuary near the Green Theater just as the heavy traffic rush away from the popular outdoor showplace exit lane. They were three hours getting home.

SUNDAY STUFF—A copy of the Tampa (Fla.) Sunday Tribune we saw recently was dated, "Tampa, Florida, Tuesday, May 12, 1952."

CLAIM TO FAME—There's a Tom Sawyer living in Torrance, who we've been unable to locate his buddy, Huckleberry Finn.

FUNNY WORLD—An extensive advertising campaign was launched recently to acquaint the public with a new synthetic material used in making men's suits and all through the advertising the material is described as "wrinkle-resistant, easily cleaned," etc. Not one word about it being a miracle product. First thing you know, some soap company will put out a new product in small and medium size boxes and will say that it's "a pretty good soap."

THE TWAIN MEET—We haven't checked into this, but Police Sgt. Ted Morris called us the other day to say he had just heard that an auto and a lifeboat collided somewhere in Gardens. He didn't know whether they called the police or the Coast Guard.

CLOSE SHAVE—Another bit of evidence that proofreaders are a necessary part of the publishing business popped up the other day when this goods came through: "Mrs. Blank wore an orchard sprinkled with silver dust and sparkles for the occasion." Orchard was quickly changed to orchid.

FAN MAIL—Four lonely GIs in Korea sent along their names and addresses to the Cage along with a plea for some mail because they "wish to correspond with the opposite sex." According to this Indiana professor's new book which has been in the pews this week that seems like a normal thing for four lonely GIs. Here's their names and addresses:
