

OFFICE IN THE SKY... In their "office" aloft, Pacific Telephone Splicers Wendall Matto and Raymond Rose work from one of the company's fleet of tower trucks. Similar vehicles will be on display at the Torrance telephone Open House Thursday and Friday from 1 to 9 p.m. at 1807 Cravens Ave.

Marvels of Communications Go On Display at Phone Co. Open House

Scientific wonders of modern communications, used to speed Torrance telephone calls along their way, will make a bow to local residents Thursday and Friday.

It's the start of Pacific Telephone's two-day Open House celebration at the Torrance office, 1807 Cravens Ave. Manager Richard Pyle invited subscribers to the dial center from 1 to 9 p.m. on Oct. 22 and 23. He said visitors will have an opportunity to see the interior of the switchrooms which house the latest development in communications, the robot type of dial equipment called crossbar.

A demonstration by telephone cable splicers will show how the company's "duct bug" ferrets out leaks in underground cables, enabling maintenance men to correct most line disturbances before they occur. The technique of splicing hundreds of individual wires in large cables will be shown.

Also to be seen—close up—is the new power auger used by construction forces to dig holes for telephone poles six feet deep in 15 seconds.

All types of telephone vehicles, including heavy construction trucks, installation and tower trucks, will be on display. An exhibition of safe-climbing will be featured by telephone linemen.

"The Torrance Open House programs," Pyle said, "are designed to give visitors a look at the modern equipment through which nearly 35,000 daily calls are placed by Pacific subscribers and to see an outstanding display of the newest construction equipment in action."
