THE ART OF MAKE-UP:

As fashion changes in the mode of dress, so it changes periodically in the ways and means of applying make-up.

In thumbing through the pages of costume history, we stop for a nostalgic moment to review the fabulous days of the roaring '20's. From underneath wide, but lowered lashes, the coquettish mien of yesterday glances out from glossy and tattered pages to re-emphasize the significance of the passing of time in milady's fashions . . .

Not only has the knee-length costume, befringed and be-ribboned, been replaced by an ever-to-be-with-us New Look, but so is it that the cupid doll mask of the Clara Bow days has been exchanged for one that is in keeping with our current costume and way of life.

Since the days of the last war we have been struggling to acquire in our mode of dress the understated and the natural. Costume-wise we see the soft shoulder, minus the padding . . . the gently indented waistline and the curved hip. In our make-up and coiffure we carry through, for the sake of harmony, the same feeling. No longer must the stylish maiden apply an unflattering line for the sake of the "latest word." Today, fashion-conscious women the world over strive to improve their appearance by applying their vast knowledge in ways that will underline their finer features and camouflage their not-so-fine.

Yes, madame can well afford to be as individualistic as a fingerprint in her own personal self.

Although there are many varied types of figures and faces, listed below are a few general rules that can often serve as a guide:

For the Face that is ROUND . . .

The idea is to slenderize, or to create the illusion of the oval, which is the perfect face. To do this, you should "break" the width of the forehead by shaping the brow, with the aid of pencil, in an inverted V. Your rouge is applied in a crescent shape to the outer cheek and lower jaw. Rouge, when well blended, serves to shadow, thus shape the face.

For the Face that is LONG . . .

Apply in reverse the above techniques. The browline, in order to widen, should be as straight as possible (but avoid carefully the severe and the hard look). Your rouge may be used in a triangle over (and to the side) of the cheekbone. This will, again, present a fuller line and one that is more flattering.

For the Face that is SQUARE . . .

This is the type that carries the fullness in the lower cheek area, usually by way of a generous jawline. In order to give a roundness to this contour, strive for an angular or V brow. The jaw area should be shadowed by lightly applying a delicate creme rouge.

For the Face that is OVAL . . .

Just sit back and count your blessings. Yours is the perfect face. You can dress up or down your eyes, cheeks, and your mouth.

For everyone, the basic and guiding rule is to apply all make-up with a very light hand. The goal, always, is to make down rather than to make up.

MISS LUCILLE GAUDREAU
... Weds John Marshall Culp

J. Kulp Exchanges Vows With Massachusetts Miss

Claiming a Massachusetts miss for his bride and establishing Mr. and Mrs. residence at the New Bedford home of her parents this summer was John Marshall Culp, son of Thomas Leroy Culp of 1307 Greenwood Ave.

The local man, a 1950 graduate of Torrance High School who was active in varsity track, football, and basketball, enlisted in the U. S. Navy in March of 1951. He met his bride, Miss Lucille C. Gaudreau, daughter of the Joseph A. Gaudreau, while stationed in Boston, Mass., following a Korean duty tour on the USS McCord with Task Force 77.

Now a radioman third class stationed at Newport, R. I., Culp took his bride, a graduate of St. Anthony High School and a member of the Junior Woman's Club, on a honeymoon journey to New Hampshire, Vermont, and Canada.

The pair exchanged rings and vows at St. Ann Church in New Bedford, with the Rev. Ernest Bessette officiating. Mrs. Claire Desroches was soloist and Leonard Langlois violinist at the nuptials, which were followed by a reception at Dan's Pavilion.

The bride's floor-length gown of nylon tulle and lace was fashioned with a pin pleated illusion boat neckline extending into short sleeves, a fitted lace bodice, and a bouffant skirt with scattered lace applique. Her scalloped, rolled edge fingertip veil was held with a coronet of orange blossoms, and she carried a Colonial bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Miss Lorraine Caron attended as maid of honor, while Miss Therese Violette, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid. Their ballerina-length, white tulle gowns were styled with a fitted, strapless bodice, accented with scattered peach rosettes and rhinestones; a bouffant skirt, peach sash, and matching stole. Their peach tulle picnic hats were trimmed with rhinestones and worn with wind-sor veils. They carried a fan

EXPECT GUESTS

Looking forward to seeing her sister, Mrs. W. D. Wagner of Henry, Ill. is Mrs. R. R. Dexter, 1625 Juniper Ave. The mid-western visitor will arrive with her son, Dyke, next Wednesday.

STAGE STORK SHOWER FOR MRS. VOES

Pink and white floral arrangements set the decorative motif for a stork shower given in honor of Mrs. Robert Voes (nee Jimmie Matthews) at the CMO home of Miss Jeanne Whitten Thursday night.

Guests tried their hand at making christening dresses for tiny dolls, and other shower games were played. Refreshments were cake and sherbet.

On hand for the occasion were Mrs. Larry Gimenez, Donald Carter, Jack Rambo, Jane Matthews, the honoree's mother and her sister; Misses Marce Wright, Ellen Kohen, June Rambo, Margaret Davis, Joan Stephens, Janet Williamson and Whitten.

Local Women Will Attend LBDD Meet

Girls from the Torrance General Petroleum and Shell Chemical corporations will be present at the July 21 dinner meeting of the Long Beach Desk and Derrick Club.

Representing G. P. at the 6:30 p.m. event, to be held in the Supper Room of the Lafayette Hotel in Long Beach, will be Myrtle Maier, Eleanor Hutchinson, and Eileen Trent. From Shell Chemical will be Donna Elzea.

E. C. Cunningham will take the speaker's rostrum after dinner, discussing the company's Gasoline Absorption Plant. His talk will be accompanied by colored slides.

ENTERTAINS

Currently visiting at the 1719 Andreo Ave. home of Mrs. Helene Scott are her son and his wife, Robert and Helen Scott, and their children, Sandra and Bobbie, of Oakland.

THE WINNAH! . . . Phil Shelton, president of the club, sits down with Miss Carol Cooper for a box lunch; Shelton outbid other lads for the honor of having the pretty lass a supper partner at Chi-Rho's box social Thursday evening.

Parents of Little Leaguers Plan Season Wind-up Dance

Mothers and fathers of little leaguers have planned a dance, to be held Saturday night, July 31, at 9 o'clock at the Western Club, 16516 S. Western Ave. in Gardena.

Tickets went on sale for the affair this week, and may be purchased at Little League Park during every game until Wednesday, July 28, or may be obtained from any major or minor league manager. The donation is $1 per person.

A "Bulletin" created by Messdames Bud Mewborn and Paul Roetiger was sent to every little league parent in Torrance. The clever invitation read: "The season's almost over—Just a few more games to go. The practice sessions and trips to the park. With your little Di Maggio. Those short order meals will be done with—The mad hunt for cap and mitt. Then the cheers when he's on on an error. "That could almost be called a hit" So come on, all you dads and mothers. Who have shared the joy and the sorrow. Of being a little league parent—See your team manager tomorrow. For tickets to the Little League Dance—July 31st is the date—A spaghetti buffet at the Western Club. We're all going to celebrate.

MMMM GOOD! . . . says Edward Boswell of 1417 Cota Ave. as he settles back after a plateful of pancakes for a cup of coffee. Serving him is pretty Marilyn Moss of 225 Via Alameda, one of the many Job's Daughters donning befringed aprons for waitress duty at the breakfast, held yesterday morning at the Guild Hall of Central Evangelical United Brethren Church. On the other side of the table are Mrs. Edward Cunningham and daughter Janet, also of 1417 Cota Ave. Pancakes and all the trimmings were prepared by the Mothers Club of Jobies; proceeds will help finance a camping trip to Crestline for the girls. Serving started at 6:30 a.m.; by 9 o'clock over 80 people had been served, and girls and their mothers were to stay on duty until 11 o'clock.

AUSSIE GALS TO PRESENT FILM NIGHT

Documentaries and travelogues of Australia will be shown at the Walteria Recreation Hall Saturday, July 24 at 8:30 p.m. by the Australian Club of Southern California.

Mrs. Lawrence Johnson is chairman of the event, which will be the club's social activity for July, and she will be assisted by Mrs. E. Conde and J. Bourneham. Films to be shown were loaned to the group from the Australian News and Information Bureau in San Francisco.

Features to be shown were specially selected for the club and will be about various activities of Australian life. The evening is open to members of the club and their friends.

Slumber Party Held by Debs

Tired from playing a baseball game but still chipper enough to spend most of the night talking and enjoying other traditional slumber party activities were members of the Debs Y-Teen group, Wednesday night.

Nineteen misses gathered at the YWCA after the baseball game, opened oolies and had an evening of fun. Breakfast, prepared by the girls, was served promptly at 8 a.m.

The "slumbers" were Janice and Jean Brimley, Connie Erickson, Marylou Sess, Mary Boskovich, Dana Cecil, Peggy Wood, Helen Haney, Joan Laskaris, Carolyn Mallo, Betty Martinez, Sally Moore, Judy Nash, Judi Reid, Sally Speck, Leah Stanton, Connie Stout, Donna Voa Steeg, and Ann Steinbaugh.
