At Refinery

C. F. Coffin has been named industrial relations manager at General Petroleum's Torrance refinery, according to an announcement by Gale L. Adams, General Petroleum's director of manufacturing.

Coffin will also be concerned with the manufacturing department's operations in Vernon, Adams said.

Coffin joined General Petroleum in 1924 as a truck driver at Vernon. He became a personnel field representative in 1938. After service in the South Pacific during World War II as a lieutenant commander in the U. S. Navy, Coffin became an industrial relations representative at the Torrance refinery.

A graduate of Montana State College, Coffin is a member of the Personnel-Industrial Relations Assn., the American Legion, the Redondo Beach Lodge of the BPOE, and the University Lions Club.

Watch Checks, Stores Warned

Torrance merchants were given a sharp warning yesterday to be on the alert for phony check artists who continue to work the Torrance area with everything from stolen payroll checks to bogus personal checks.

A forged check turned up here this week, according to Detective Sgt. Percy Bennett. The check was drawn on the account of the Long Beach Brass Foundry, and made payable to a Richard D. Pratt. The illegible signature was strictly a forgery, company officials told police.

Several other instances of "funny" check passing has been spotted here, Bennett said.
