County To Negotiate For Beach Lands Protection

Negotiations with the State of California to protect the County's rights in State acquired beach lands now operated by the County were ordered Tuesday by Supervisor Burton W. Chace.

Chace pointed out to the Board of Supervisors that the present master lease between the County and the State of California on the beach lands "does not fully protect the interests of the taxpayers of the County of Los Angeles."

According to Chace, under the terms of the present lease, the State may cancel the lease merely by giving one year's notice in writing, and further, does not have to reimburse the County for any capital improvements made upon the beach areas.

Acquired by State
Chace pointed out that a sizable part of the County's beach areas were acquired by the State and are being operated, developed, and maintained by the County. He said that he felt for the protection of the County's interests, the lease should be amended so that it could only be canceled by mutual agreement of the County and the State.

The Supervisor further stated that he felt the monies for the development and maintenance of the beach areas should in part be contributed by the State with tideland oil funds "because these beaches are a recreational area and playground not only for the people of Los Angeles County, but for more than half the population of the State of California, as well as for millions of out-of-state visitors."

Chace won Board approval for County representatives to appear at the Division of Beaches and Parks Commission meeting at San Francisco next Friday to present the County's demands.

Prize Winners For Kites Told

The annual kite contest, sponsored by the Torrance Recreation Department, was a huge success, according to Les Breitenfeldt, in charge of the tourney.

Some of the kites soared high into the blue, while others stubbornly refused to leave the ground, Breitenfeldt reported.

Nearly a hundred people gathered at Turrance Park to watch the colorful event.

Vern Clary, local teacher, had the difficult task of selecting winners from the many kites that were entered.

Those taking home prizes were as follows: Robin Moffitt took first place for the most outstanding kite and Robert Antletz was second. Andy Lano grabbed off first place for the most novel, Billy Beasley was second.

In the best ready-made division, Barbara Herman and Rieby Daniels took awards. Jimmy Burkhardt took first place for the largest, and John Mel was second. Eddie Einkler carried home first place for the smallest and John Moffitt took the second place award.

Shopping Center Manager Speaks To El Nido Civic Association

Latest information and progress in the development of the new South Bay Shopping Center, soon to be erected at the corner of 174th St. and Hawthorne Ave., was given to members of the El Nido Civic Association at last Monday night's meeting by Robert H. Adler, general manager of the new project.

Adler told the large audience that work on the Medical Center, the first of the buildings to be erected on the property would start within the next 90 days. It is planned to make this one of the most modern and up-to-date structures of its kind in Los Angeles County.

Following that will be the construction of the big recreation center which will include a huge bowling alley equipped with automatic pin setters. Another feature of the Center will be the large civic auditorium which will be open for local and public events during the week days. On Friday and Saturday big dances will be held with famous name bands furnishing the music.

The entire property will be beautifully landscaped and the same architectural scheme followed throughout in all the buildings, according to Adler. Parking space will be provided for more than 3000 cars and the streets so arranged that traffic will move with as little interruption as possible.

The meeting was attended by a large delegation from north Torrance.

The secretary was directed to send a letter to the Board of Supervisors protesting against any sale of El Nido Park to Redondo Beach.
