Roy King's orchestra will provide music for the affair. Heine Miller, grand knight, urged all members to contact committeemen as soon as possible for reservations, since they are limited.

Bill of Rights Week Proclaimed by Governor

"I suggest that the Bill of Rights Week, Dec. 9-15, be observed by appropriate ceremonies and prayers as well as by public display of the Flag of the United States to the fullest extent practicable," said Governor Knight yesterday in a proclamation designating Bill of Rights Week throughout the State.

The week will mark the 15th local commemoration of the ratification 164 years ago, Dec. 15, 1791, of the first 10 amendments to our Constitution.

Urges Attention
"I urge my fellow Californians to fully familiarize themselves with the many valued privileges guaranteed to them by these basic laws of our nation," reads the proclamation. "Since our nation is engaged in a determined effort to maintain and safeguard the essential liberties of humanity, so seriously threatened by tyranny and oppression, I firmly believe it is important that all Americans emphatically renew their resolution to accept and practice the principles set forth in the Bill of Rights.

Simultaneously the Bill of Rights Week Commemoration Committee, headed by Civic Leader Joe Crail, announced plans for specific events for the week which is observed in government, offices, courts, schools, churches, and civic and fraternal clubs.

Activities Held
The annual Bill of Rights Week Press luncheon will be held Monday, Dec. 12, at the Biltmore. Congress Clyde Doyle (D) will be the featured speaker.

On Tuesday, Dec. 13, students of the Woodrow Wilson Junior High School in Glendale will present a special dramatic skit before the Board of Supervisors.

A special reading of the Bill of Rights will be heard by the Los Angeles City Council on Thursday, Dec. 15.

In addition many ministers in all faiths have indicated that they would give special sermons about the famous document, and school principals have announced plans for readings assemblies, displays and other events designed to acquaint students with the Bill of Rights.
