Thomas Hailed For His Work In Legislature

Assemblyman Vincent Thomas, 68th district representative at Sacramento, is probably the least controversial of the 80 incumbents and candidates seeking re-election or election to the state legislature, according to reports released this week by Thomas' campaign headquarters.

Thomas, a Democrat and a vetetran lawmaker, during his 16 years as a member of the assembly, has managed to capture "the true spirit of a fair and impartial state legislator" the report states, and as a consequence has gained the respect of, powerful Republican influence as well as that of state Democratic leaders.

Renamed to Commission

Gov. Goodwin Knight four years ago, addressing guests at a San Pedro dinner in his honor, stated that "Thomas probably was the best man this district could send to Sacramento," and this year, to further bear out this, fact, the Republican governor appointed Thomas to an extended two-ye ar term as a member of the Pacific Marine Fisheries Commission. The term expires, Sept. 19, 1959.

In his letter notifying Thomas of the appointment, Gov. Knight said in part: "It is my pleasure to reappoint you Commissioner... This appointment will enable you to continue your very fine service to the Commission and the State... My very best wishes to you."
