Record net sales of $1,243,767,483 by North American Aviation in the year ended Sept. 30 were announced by J. H. Kindelberger, chairman of the board, in the company's 30th annual report to stockholders.

The previous high of $913,981,913 was reached in 1956. Net income after all costs and provision for federal income taxes was $33,864,462, also a record, as against $28,760,982 in the previous year. This was equal to $4.22 per share on 8,015,077 shares of capital stock outstanding at Sept. 30, as compared to $3.59 a share the preceding fiscal year.

For the fourth quarter of the 1957 fiscal year, total sales and other income amounted to $309,539,607, with costs of sales and other expenses, including year-end adjustments, of $292,806,145. This resulted in a net income of $7,260,462 for the fourth quarter, after estimated federal income taxes of $9,473,000.

Noting that the 1957 net income represented 2.72 per cent of net sales, as compared with 3.15 per cent the previous year, Kindelberger attributed the decline largely to the continuing trend toward cost-type contracts, under which lower profit rates are generally negotiated.

While this was the 10th year of increased sales, and the first in which sales were in excess of one billion dollars, Kindelberger estimated that sales in the 1958 fiscal year would drop to approximately $700,000,000 because of termination of the Navajo missile program in July and declining schedules of other programs. However, he said this figure may vary as a result of future changes on the part of the government.

North American's current backlog of unfilled orders amounts to $581,000,000, the lowest since 1951, compared with a backlog of $1,285,000,000 at the end of the 1956 fiscal year. Including orders that are not yet funded but are currently being negotiated as continuations of authorized programs, the total backlog at Sept. 30 would be $918,000,000.

Despite this decline, Kindelberger expressed confidence in the company's future, declaring that the "long-range outlook is excellent because of the nation's continuing security requirements and the company's proven ability to meet those requirements."
