Student Supermarkets Teach Pupils Practical Arithmetic

While city and business leaders were busy snipping ribbons to open large new Torrance department and grocery stores recently, two ribbon-cuttings at smaller establishments created great excitement in the small areas which they serve.

The eagerly-awaited openings occurred at the Casimir Food Store, owned and operated by first and second grade students in Mrs. Lynne Venturini's and Mrs. Mae Woodruff's rooms at Casimir School, and the Third Grade Grocery in Mrs. Martha Jackson's room at Arlington School.

They found out how prices were determined and how budgets should be purchased. All school supermarket transactions are conducted with play money however.

In Mrs. Jackson's class, youngsters are allowed to buy only four items at once. The cashier writes up a sales slip. Then he and the customer carefully compare their figures and addition. As part of the arithmetic lesson, Mrs. Jackson collects the slips and checks them over.

Students also write many papers about the operation of their own and real grocery stores. Since part of the primary course of study is about the community, the market fits into the pattern. Inasmuch as most children are familiar with their nearby grocery store, it offers a convenient and interesting way to teach them arithmetic.

Other teachers also usually similar grocery store set-ups for children in their classrooms.

Sure! But fly 'em safely!

Here's how—explains Reddy Kitepat

1. Fly kites in an open field, away from electric power lines and other overhead obstructions.
2. Be sure string is perfectly dry.
3. Never use wire, tinseel or metallic string.
