Public Indifference to Polio Shots Shocks Medical Circles

By ROY O. GILBERT, M.D., County Health Officer

Approximately 72 million people in the United States have been vaccinated against poliomyelitis since the vaccine became available in 1955. Although this is a remarkably large number of immunizations, about 98 million Americans are yet to be vaccinated against the disease. Indeed, public indifference to the protection offered by the polio vaccine is considered something of a phenomenon in medical circles.

Despite some misunderstandings, and misgivings, in the earliest days after the Salk vaccine became available, the vaccine has proved remarkably effective in preventing the paralytic form of the disease. More than 430 million doses have been given in the United States and other countries, and the individuals who were vaccinated three years ago still enjoy adequate protection.

means is that every family member should be vaccinated against it.

There is still time to get two immunizations of the desired three before this year's polio season sets in. The lack of money is no excuse since community clinics sponsored by the National Foundation and many local groups are being held frequently in many locations throughout Los Angeles County. In addition, physicians offer the immunization in their offices at nominal fees.

A pamphlet giving additional information on polio vaccination will be mailed to anyone sending a card of request to the Div. of Public Health Education, Los Angeles County Health Dept., 241 N. Figueroa St., Los Angeles 12.

Class of '54 Seeks Addresses

UNFORTUNATELY, the 98 million people in the United States who remain unvaccinated-protected to a degree by those who are, provide a large reservoir of potential polio victims. Last year there were 5,995 cases of poliomyelitis in the United States, which is slightly more than the number that occurred in 1957. However, the number of cases in either of these years is smaller than the incidence in any of the previous 15.

Encouraging as it seems, it was no comfort to the 5,995 individuals that were unfortunate enough to contract polio in 1958, and especially not for the 3,083 polio victims who suffered from the paralytic form of the disease.

Statistics indicate that 50 per cent of all paralytic cases occurred in children under five years of age. As National Foundation president Basil O'Connor said recently, it was "shocking" that the parents of so many children in the most vulnerable age group "have done nothing to protect their helpless young."

Addresses of several members of the Class of '54 alumni of Torrance High School are still outstanding, it was announced today by Mrs. Sally Sprout Mallard, co-chairman of the class reunion to be held next month.

Members of the class who have not yet received correspondence regarding the reunion are asked to contact Mrs. Mallard at FA 8-7870 or Sandra Grub Hakanson, co-chairman, at FA 8-7483.

The reunion will be held Saturday, May 23, in the Supper Room of the Lafayette Hotel in Long Beach. A cocktail hour at 6:30 p.m. will precede the dinner-dance. Price of the turkey dinner, which will be served at 7:30 p.m. is $4 per person.

Revival Tabernacle Plans Homecoming Day

"Home Coming Day" will be observed Sunday by the Harbor City Revival Tabernacle, 1032 West Pacific Hwy. Former members and friends will attend Sunday morning services followed by a picnic lunch. Rev. Fred Martin will deliver the sermon.

ACTUALLY, although the highest incidence of the disease is presently among pre-school children, the disease attacks individuals without much regard for age. What this
