

Pensioned Vets Told to Report Income Changes

Veterans Service Officer, Ave., warned today that any death pension must report promptly to the Veterans Administration any change which brings his or her income above the statutory limitations.

Limitations are $1,400 annually in the case of single persons and $2,700 for pensioners with dependents. The VA should also be advised of any anticipation that a pensioner's income will exceed his limitation, she stated.

AFTER receiving such notice, which may be sent through the local Veterans Service Office, the VA will stop the pension for the balance of the year, as of the date of the last payment. If notice of excess income is not reported promptly—within 30 days under normal circumstances—the pension will be discontinued back to the first day of January. In that way an over-payment would have occurred, and the VA will request repayment of all money sent to the pensioner during the year, she explained.

If reimbursement is not made, the VA will deduct the overpayment from the pension award if it is ever re-established. A pension may be reinstated in subsequent years by a letter asking for reinstatement and including a statement showing that income or anticipated income is again within the limit.
