Our son met her in a distant city when he roomed with her aunt. We fear he was just lonely and will regret it if hemarries her. What do you think?—MRS. E. Y.

Your son is 24 years of age. If this is his choice, then there's nothing you can oshould say.

From your description, the girl sounds like very poor wifematerial. But I suspect there's more to this situation than meets the eye. A 19-year-old who has so little energy is more than just shiftless and lany—she's ill and should see a doctor.

A normally healthy young girl, meeting her future in-laws for the first time woald surely put her best foot forward, if she could. I suspect she's not up to par.
